Youthful King of Siam Dies of Bullet Wound; U. S. Native Is New Ruler

By ALEC MACDONALD.

BANGKOK, Monday, June 10—(AP)—King Ananda Mahidol, 20-year-old ruler of Siam, was found dead of a bullet wound yesterday in the royal palace, and 12 hours later the Siamese Legislature named his Boston-born brother, Prince Phumiphon Aduldet, 18, as the new King.

The Siamese Police Director General told an emergency session of the national legislature Sunday night the King's death was accidental and that the bullet went through the center of his forehead.

KING ANANDA MAHIDOL
Siam Ruler Gun Victim.

The young King, whose death occurred on the eve of a projected trip to the United States, had been indisposed for the past two days. He arose at 6 a. m. Sunday and took some medicine. Nothing was known of his actions from that time until his body was found by a servant in the bedroom of the Barompinan Palace about 9 a. m.

UANANIMOUS CHOICE

The historic night session of the legislature unanimously selected Phumiphon Aduldet as the new King, rising together to signalize his election with a chanted "Cha yo cha yo cha yo"—the Siamese hurrah.

Phumiphon Aduldet was born in Boston while his father, the late Prince Mahidol of Songkhla, was studying at Harvard. He was the constant companion of his older brother and attended school with him in Switzerland.

The legislature also appointed a three-man Council of Regency to guide the new King in matters of state. Pridi Phanomyong, who was reappointed Premier only three days ago, told the Legislature he would recommend a Premier to the new Regency, but legislative sources said there was little doubt that Pridi Phanomyong himself would receive the post.

The entire nation was stunned by the news of Ananda Mahidol's death. The young King had gained great popularity since his return from Switzerland last December.

FANCIER OF FIREMENS

Ananda, a great fancier of firearms, always kept a weapon near him and often practiced firing in the Palace grounds. Several weeks ago a thief stole his favorite Luger automatic and the King was greatly disturbed.

The King's young, attractive mother, Queen Mother Phraratanani Sri Sangwan, was prostrate with grief.

Most of Bangkok was unaware of the death of the quiet, studious young ruler until the Government broadcast the news at 7 p. m. Immediately a mournful wail went up from the crowd gathered in the square before the Publicity Building, near the Royal Palace.

The youthful King, who ascended the throne 11 years ago, as a boy, had been making plans to leave Bangkok this week for the United States and Europe. He had expected to fly to the United States and remain there about a week before flying to Switzerland, where he planned to resume the studies he interrupted when he returned to his native land last Dec. 5.

The Queen Mother and a royal suite of 20 had been expected to accompany him on the trip.

Different, bespectacled and boy-

British Fly Mufti To Arabs

By ELIAV SIMON

JERUSALEM, June 9—(UP)—The Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, a master of Middle Eastern intrigue and personal friend of Adolf Hitler, landed at Damascus Sunday in a British plane from exile in France.

A huge crowd of Arabs was at the airport to meet him and he was greeted with a wild ovation as he stepped from his plane, telephoned dispatches from the Syrian capital said.

The Mufti, Haj Amin El Husseini, who has been in exile for seven years, was scheduled to address the powerful Arab League, holding a conference at near-by Biudan.

The object of the conference is to prevent the United States and Britain from sending 100,000 more Jewish immigrants into Palestine, as the Anglo-American Joint Committee of Inquiry recently urged.

There was no immediate explanation of how the Mufti happened to be traveling in a British plane. The British asked France one time, at least, to hand over the Mufti so he could be tried as a war criminal. French troops captured him in Germany toward the end of the war, and he had been staying in Paris.

His status there was peculiar. He was said to have been under close surveillance. Yet when Paris papers reported Saturday night that he had "escaped," the French Government said no question of escape was involved; that the

PAC In Conclave Fails To Indorse State Candidates

By WELLINGTON WRIGHT

"Our aim is to defeat Eugene Talmadge for Governor."

Charles H. Gillman, of Atlanta, Regional Director of the CIO, made this flat statement yesterday afternoon after a three-hour closed executive conference here with 250 State delegates of CIO's Political Action Committee.

After Gillman made this statement, an unofficial spokesman revealed that the conference adopted a pledge to do all it can "tr defeat Talmadge at any cost."

The delegates decided to indorse no candidates in the coming State Primary, but gave authority to PAC's Executive Board to issue "to the CIO members some impartial statement giving the records of the candidates."

BOARD MEETS

After the conference, the Executive Board met. Gillman said it took no definite action but that shortly before the July 17 Primary it night meet and make definite political recommendations to the 100 CIO locals in the State.

Informed last night of Gillman's statement, Herman Talmadge, campaign manager for his candidate father, said:

"We gladly accept the challenge of CIO's Political Action Committee."

Gillman told reporters:

"We discussed the records of the candidates for Governor and other important offices. We decided at this time to make no recommendations and no indorsements. However, you can say:

"Our aim is to defeat Eugene Talmadge for Governor."

His attention was called to the fact that this left CIO members free to choose between Carmichael and Rivers.

TO INFORM

"It is our desire," Gillman answered, "to furnish our members with all information possible about these candidates. If we do that, I believe our people will back the best man to win."

Gillman explained that local units of the PAC are at liberty to make any indorsements or recommendations they wish. But the meeting urged every CIO member "to vote for the candidate he thought best."

Asked specifically if he had any information on how the Negroes intend to vote in the coming primary, Gillman replied:

"I am confident that the Negroes will vote for the progressive candidates."

Gillman's attention was directed to the fact that most of the delegates left carrying Carmichael literature. He disclaimed responsibility for it.

"Some Carmichael supporters probably brought that literature

23 Believed Killed In C-54 Plane Crash

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., June 9—(AP)—An Army rescue party Sunday night had recovered 19 bodies from the wreckage of a C-54 plane from Morrison Field here which crashed on a mountainside on Taboga Island.

All 23 persons aboard, including 17 passengers and six crew members, were believed to have perished.

Lt. Col. John S. Owens, Deputy Commander of Morrison Field, said the plane, on a routine flight, carried one Army colonel, two West Point cadets, one civilian, six crew members and 13 enlisted men.

Darkness halted the search for additional bodies and it will be resumed on Monday, Owens said. He added that a select crew was flying the plane and cause of the crash had not been determined.

He said the plane left Morrison Field here at 4:45 a. m. and crashed at 11:13 a. m. when it struck the mountain on Taboga Island, eight miles off the Canal Zone coast.

Owens said the plane exploded as it struck the mountain.

An Army rescue party, headed by Lt. Gen. Willis D. Crittenberger, Commander of the Panama Canal Department, Sunday night was attempting to identify the badly-mangled bodies.

15 Perish in Iowa Hotel Blaze; 24 Others Listed as Missing

Screaming Guests Leap Out Windows

DUBUQUE, Iowa, June 9—(AP)—Fifteen persons perished in an early-morning fire that swept through the Canfield Hotel Sunday while 24 other persons still were unaccounted for Sunday night.

American Red Cross officials said that in addition to the 15 known dead and 21 injured only 69 others of the hotel's 129 registered guests had been accounted for.

An all-day search of the charred debris of the blackened hulk of the 200-room hotel had yielded only 15 bodies and Sunday night Deputy State Fire Marshal Zach Cook ordered that the search cease until supports could be provided for "the dangerously sagging walls."

Meantime, there were stories told of breath-taking escapes and heroic rescues; of Catholic priests in this predominantly Catholic city appearing on the scene to administer last rites as victims were brought out.

SCREAMS OF TRAPPED

The screams from flaming hotel windows of trapped inmates remained fixed in the mind of one fireman.

"If I live to be a hundred, I'll never forget the screams of the scores of persons standing at windows when I arrived . . .," Fire Capt. Harold Cosgrove said.

Thirty leaped to safety into nets, but a woman died instantly when she jumped from the fourth floor and struck the pavement. Cosgrove said a man struck the rim of the net with his head when he leaped from the fourth floor and died a few minutes later.

Fire Chief Perry Kirch praised the rescue of civilians.

Leo Loso, Jr., 25, searching the flaming hotel for his sister, found two persons on the fourth floor, one unconscious. He helped them to a window and attracted the attention of firemen who removed them by ladder.

Larry Driscoll, Dubuque resident, was credited with rescuing four or five persons, but no details were available. John Sanders, Jefferson City, Mo., salesman for a funeral supply house, related how he was bathing when he heard fire sirens. He paid no attention until he detected the odor of smoke, and, upon opening the door of his room, saw flames in the hall.

Donning a pair of trousers he went to the window, hoping for a ladder. He slipped out onto the sill and then hung by his hands for several minutes before dropping to the ground two floors below. He suffered only minor bruises and scratches.

CAUSE NOT KNOWN

Although the cause of the fire was not known at a late hour, hotel employes said it apparently started in the basement, raced up a partition separating the main-floor lobby and cocktail lounge, and fanned out and upward quickly.

When the first pieces of fire-fighting equipment arrived, witnesses said many windows were occupied with hotel guests screaming for help. Nets were spread below and rescue ladders were run up the sides of the structure. But a few guests in their panic couldn't wait and jumped to their deaths.

John Becker, a hotel clerk, said William Canfield, Jr., the hotel's co-owner with his father, who lost his life, discovered the fire and sounded the alarm immediately. Becker said he telephoned the Fire Department at 12:39 a. m. (CDT), within 30 seconds after Canfield made the discovery.

But the blaze had made considerable headway and resisted for about two and a half hours the efforts of 75 firemen, 35 policemen, nine pieces of equipment and scores of volunteers to bring it under control.

GREATER TOLL FEARED

Chief Kirch said late in the day he feared that there were more bodies in the wreckage.

Grange Kohn, hotel clerk, said 129 guests were registered Saturday night.

This was the second time within four days that a major fire struck a hotel. A fire at the La Salle Hotel in Chicago last Wednesday has claimed 61 lives.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. De Laek, Wyandotte, Mich., said they were awakened by the commotion on the streets and then smelled smoke. The pressure against their door was "terrific," De Laek said. They exited through the window and fire escape, and Mrs. DeLaek suffered minor injuries while on the iron fire escape steps.

HOTEL OWNER DIES

Twelve of the dead were identified, including a 5-year-old girl and the 75-year-old owner of the hotel. For many hours it was thought that 15 had perished, but in mid-afternoon Dr. F. S. Leonard, Coroner, said one unidentified body had been counted twice.

The identified dead:

Ray Lauks, Dover, Ill.; Stanley D. Shibsby, Minneapolis, Minn.; William C. Hubert, San Francisco, Calif.; Max Fred Betzle, Prairie Du Chien, Wis.; Mrs. Theresa Smith, hotel resident. Judith Miller, 5 granddaughter of Mrs. Smith; William Canfield, 75, owner of hotel; Clarence Reifsteck,

Witness Tells of Horror Of Hotel Visit of Death

By H. G. TYSON

DUBUQUE, Iowa, June 9—(AP)—The flames had already broken through the top of the main hotel building when I arrived on the scene at about 1:15 a. m. Smoke was coming through the windows of the annex at the opposite side of the hotel part of the building.

A woman stood at a window on the sixth floor and two men were at another window on that floor. Whether it was smoke or their shocked condition that made them wave stolidly could not be ascertained. Firemen swung their long ladder under the window in which the woman stood. One of the firemen hurried up the ladder to help the woman out the window and assisted her in the descent to the ground.

When the ladder was moved over to the window where the two men were standing, a third man appeared at another window. By the time the two men reached the ground the third window was vacant. Believing the man had fallen back into the room, the firemen swung their ladder to that window. Unable to find the man, they later learned that he had run to the fire escape on the south side of the annex and had followed it to safety.

Fire Capt. Harold Cosgrove helped to drag his hose into position and, turning to me, said:

"If I live to be a hundred, I'll never forget the screams of the scores of persons standing at windows when I arrived in Chief Perry Kirch's car. We concentrated our efforts on rescuing them before we began to fight the blaze. Thirty of them jumped for nets that firemen and dozens of volunteers held; 27 were saved by ladder crews.

KILLED BY NET

"One man jumped from the fourth floor; his head struck the rim of the net and he died a few minutes later. A woman failed to hit the net when she jumped from the fourth floor and died instantly when she struck the pavement."

Police, firemen, sheriff's officers and volunteers hastened up the fire escapes, guiding panic-stricken guests to safety while smoke poured from windows and doors.

Streams of water seemed to come from everywhere. Although the flames did not reach a great height above the top of the building they made a roaring inferno in the rooms of the hotel building, which connects on the east with the annex.

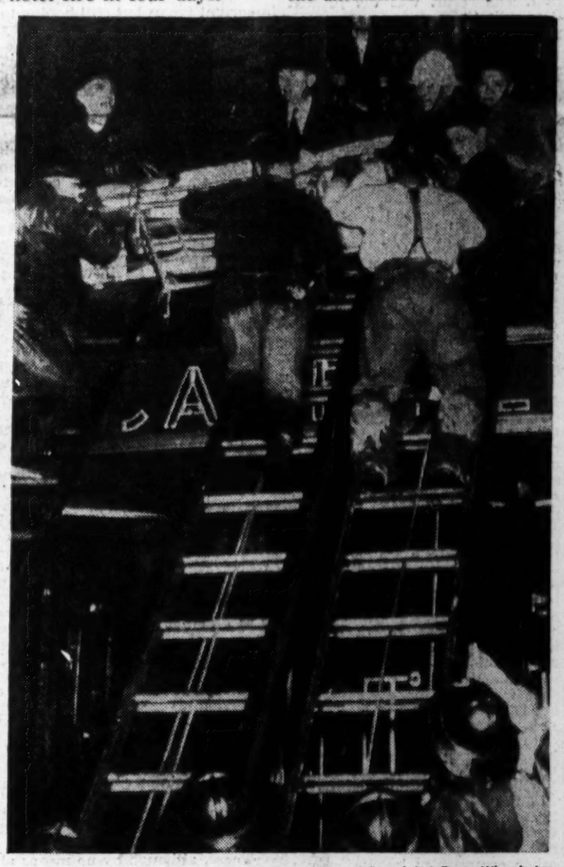

Before dawn the fire was under control.

I had taken several pictures on the outside. Police and firemen permitted me to follow them to the sixth and top floor of the annex, where the smoke made us cough and rub our eyes. A charred body lay at the end of a hall on the sixth floor. The men put a canvas on the remains. In a room on the third floor we saw a man wearing shorts, sprawled on his stomach in front of the window. He was dead. No burns were on his body.

SUFFOCATED

We went down the hall a short distance and entered another room. A dead man was lying on his stomach just inside an open door. In a room on the second floor a man dressed in shorts was half-kneeling, half-lying across a bed. Like the other two he had died of suffocation. An hour later the heat had subsided enough in the hotel, which was a shambles inside, for us to work our way to the fourth floor. Half-covered with black, burned wood was a small boy. In another room a body was propped on the right elbow, half buried by debris.

I went back down and watched Chief Kirch carry the small figure wrapped in canvas down the ladder. A man met him at the bottom of the ladder, and took the canvas. He walked over to the side of the building and placed the figure gently on the sidewalk. The child was his daughter.

Port Paid Time Off Eases Strike Tension; Walkout Threat Is Seen for Inland Waters

WASHINGTON, June 9—(UP)—The National Maritime Union, CIO, Sunday night set machinery in motion for a nationwide shipping strike Friday midnight but industry sources hinted a new offer might be made to head off the walkout of 200,000 seamen and longshoremen.

Informants close to the negotiations said that the maritime industry regarded as "a good sound approach" the proposal made Saturday by Federal conciliators that companies grant one day off for each 14 days spent at sea. One conciliator said the proposal was designed to compromise union demands for a 44-hour work week.

Negotiations on the demand have been deadlocked since last Wednesday.

An industry source estimated one day for each 14 at sea would amount to 15 days a year. He said that some large companies followed this "day off" practice before the war.

Union leaders were understood to be favorably inclined also toward the principle of compensatory time off. Some doubt existed however, whether they would accept one day for each 14 at sea as sufficient.

The maritime industry was also reported ready to improve upon an earlier offer to raise seamen's wages $12.50 a month and overtime pay rates to 90 and 95 cents and $1 an hour.

WASHINGTON, June 9—(UP) — An AFL Seamen's Union President said Sunday that his Union would "combat the efforts of the Communist Party and it controlled CIO Maritime Unions to form Soviets aboard American ships.

Writing in the monthly American Federationist, Capt. Harry Martin, President of the Masters, Mates and Pilots (AFL), charged that "the Communists, through the Waterfront Council and the Communist-dominated CIO Maritime Unions, are endeavoring to spread their tentacles over the entire Maritime transportation industry and take it over."

The devolpments were disclosed as both sides entered a night negotiating session a few hours after the NMU issued its formal strike instructions which some leaders predicted would bring about a worldwide shipping paralysis.

The union threatened in a statement to extend the strike call to include tankers, Great Lakes and inland rivers vessels and all foreign flag ships. Bonafide food relief and troop ships have so far been exempt from the call.

Union sources said the strike machinery is so involved that, even if a settlement is reached in the five remaining days of negotiations, some disruption of shipping service is almost certain.

Despite the union statement, Government labor conciliators returned to the task of seeking an agreement to head off the walkout while other Federal agencies went ahead with plans to keep the ships sailing if the strike occurs. President Truman has ordered use of the Armed Forces if necessary to man the merchant ships.

The union-shipowner conferences are deadlocked on the unions' demand for a reduction in the 56-hour week. Employers are standing pat on their refusal to cut the week and the unions refuse to budge from their "final" offer of a 44-hour work week at sea.

The NMU National Council concluded a three-day strike strategy meeting with appropriation of $1,000,000 to finance the walkout and with a statement that it and the six other unions affiliated with the Committee for Maritime Unity will reject fact finding, mediation, arbitration and interim agreements in lieu of a strike unless such proposals fix a definite settlement date.

"This is a hard decision to make," the Council said just before its 40 members scattered to carry out strike instructions in all American ports.

"The repeated refusal of the shipowners, which was encouraged by the Administration's threat to break our strike by the use of the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and War Shipping Administration will, if continued, compel us to take the only course possible—strike."

The Council directed that its negotiating committee submit its

Hot, Clear Weather, High of 90 Forecast

Georgia can expect hot and clear weather today and tomorrow, according to the Atlanta forecaster's report yesterday.

Today's predicted high and low are 90 and 66.

Yesterday's high and low were 92 and 69.

Tuesday should continue clear with a high of 88.

Girl, Escort Beaten on Lonely Road

A young Atlanta woman and her escort were severely beaten by a Negro assailant early yesterday morning in a wild struggle on a lonely dirt road in DeKalb County.

The victims, according to DeKalb County Police, identified themselves as Miss Sybil Mercer, 20, of 525 Rankin St., N. E., and Al Bentley, 28, of 957 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E.

Following the attack on the couple, DeKalb County Police arrested three Negro men and a Negro woman living in a settlement at Washington Park.

Bentley told police that during the struggle the Negro threatened to kill him. Both he and Miss Mercer were treated at Grady Hospital, and then taken home. Both suffered lacerations of the face and head, loss of blood, and bruises of the body.

Miss Mercer told police she and Bentley were in his car parked in the moonlight on an unpaved road near Washington Park at about 3 a. m. She said they had been there about an hour when, becoming aware of the lateness of the hour, she dozed for a moment.

She said she was next awakened by a sound, and was horrified to see a Negro man beating Bentley about the head and face. The Negro opened the door, and dragged Bentley from the car.

The two men engaged in combat, struggling several feet from the automobile. Miss Mercer said she looked around the car for a weapon to defend herself and Bentley, and found a hammer on the floor of the vehicle.

She left the car, and, hammer in hand, went to the aid of Bentley, just at the moment Bentley broke away. As Bentley ran from the Negro, he shouted to her: "Get back to the car and go!"

The Negro pursued Bentley as Miss Mercer ran back to the automobile. She dropped the hammer in flight. She said she had difficulty trying to start the car. The Negro abandoned chasing Bentley and ran to the automobile. There he began to beat her, she said.

Miss Mercer managed to get out of the car and ran to the Lawrenceville Highway, near Scott Boulevard. She said she hailed a passing automobile, but the driver failed to halt. The Negro had not followed her.

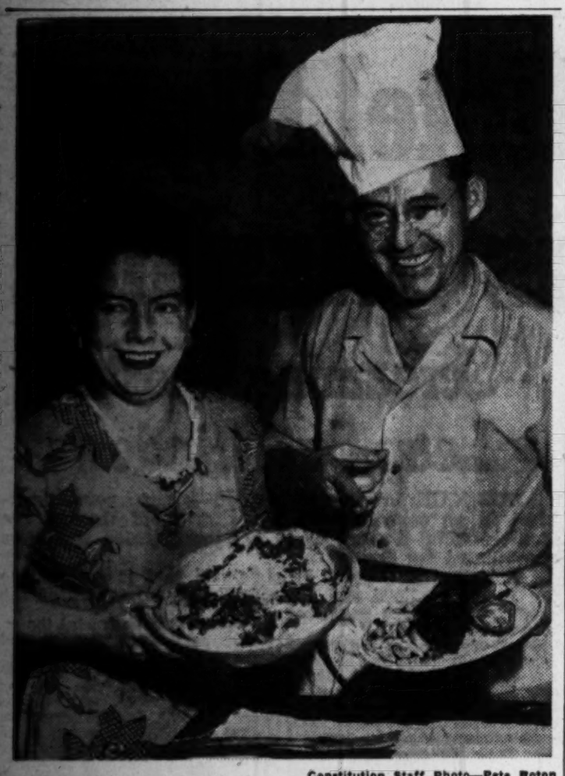

The driver of the car who failed to halt for Miss Mercer, however, telephoned police. They hurried to the scene and found Miss Mercer. She was taken to the hospital. Bentley was traced to a house in Scottdale, where he

Meat Famine Is Feared In Week As Stockmen Await Price Boost

LET GEORGES DO IT—Georges and Ruth Remond, chefs, cooks and bottlewashers of Remond's Cafe, show two samples of their culinary artistry which has attracted hundreds of gourmets from all parts of Atlanta to their little restaurant "on the wrong side of the tracks".

WASHINGTON, June 9—(UP) A meat famine will hit the Nation within a week if cattle and hog producers continue to withhold their animals from the market, a spokesman for the Office of Economic Stabilization said Sunday.

He said there appears to be a universal feeling among livestock men that if they hold off until July 1, price controls will be lifted or so weakened that prices will soar.

He added that the holding-back scheme has grown steadily worse for several weeks and "if it continues, we will have a meat famine a week from now."

He said the situation is further aggravated because there also is withholding at the packer level in anticipation that OPA controls will be removed.

The Senate takes up the OPA extension bill this week. In its present form it removes all controls on meat, poultry and dairy products on July 1, and transfers control of other foods from OPA to the Department of Agriculture. The House already has passed a similar measure.

OPA Sunday released a statement showing that livestock receipts in 12 principal terminal markets are steadily declining. The railroad strike curtailed shipments for a time but both OPA and the Department of Agriculture now agree that the cattleman's "wait-and-see" policy is primarily responsible.

Meantime, OPA reported a decrease in black marketing of meat. It said that through the Government's slaughtering quotas, which tend to "freeze out" illegitimate dealers, production of meat under Federal inspection rose nine percent from April 29 to May 25 over the March 31-April 27 period.

It said the program is not putting more meat on the table but is giving legitimate distributors a greater percentage.

Officials agree that there will be more meat after July 1, if OPA controls are removed, but they also are warning that prices will skyrocket to such an extent that housewives will have to pay more than a billion dollars in increased levies.

ROAST GUINEA ON PETERS STREET

Culinary Artists Serve Dishes Fit For Kings

By JIM FURNISS

On the wrong side of the tracks, but on the right side of the palate. That's the way Atlanta gourmets feel about a little restaurant at 271 Peters St. where, one night last week, an expectant hush fell over the small dining room. In the darkness, a platter glowed with a soft blue flame as patrons turned to watch Georges Remond, his face wreathed in smiles, place a breast of guinea hen cooked in brandy before two of his guests.

"I think you will find this to your taste," Georges intoned in a thick French accent, redolent with a master's pride.

Following his grand entrance with the flaming guinea hen, Georges turned up the lights, revealing other guests savoring such delectables as Pompanao Papillotte, Oysters Rockefeller, Chicken en Casserole and other dishes hard to find in the South's Gate City.

COMMON SETTING

The setting is not imposing. Like any of a hundred "hash houses" in the City, there are several booths along one wall, a marble eating counter and eight tables jammed into a small floor space. The cafe is located in the heart of Atlanta's wholesale food district which not so many years ago was known for its mule barns and hotels charging 25 cents a night.

Yet what the little restaurant lacks in elegance it more than makes up for in good food and incomparable hospitality. Remond, a genial Frenchman who made his acquaintance with the United States by jumping ship in 1928 in New York, says his creed is to give persons food which they can find nowhere else in the city.

"Instead of using a little of this and this, I put in a little of that and that, and the cutsomers—well, they just keep coming back."

Remond's eminence as a chef "par excellence" did not come overnight. He began his apprenticeship at the age of 14 with Monsieur LaGuerre, a fine chef of the old school in the French Merchant Marine. After several years with notable French eating places, he came to America where he served in New York's leading hostelries and clubs.

FIGHTS FOR COUNTRY

In 1939, Remond left America to fight for France, but 1940 found him just a jump ahead of the Germans as they overran his fatherland. After some harrowing experiences in Algeria, Morocco and Martinique, Remond arrived back in New York in the Winter of 1941, broke but not broken.

Having no Winter clothes, he headed for the warm South for a job in a famous Louisiana hotel where he met and married Ruth Scales, of Little Rock, Ark., his charming wife. Shortly later, they both came to work in one of Atlanta's leading private clubs.

But Remond, an artist at heart, was unsatisfied with turning out hundreds of meals daily in a place where he had no time to give each morsel of food his personal touch. As a consequence, he and his wife advertised in the Constitution two and a half years ago for a restaurant. The result was the present Remond's Cafe.

BAD REPUTATION

During the first year, the restaurant suffered from its former reputation as a haven for drunks whose taste for food, whenever they felt like eating, ran to a glass of milk and a few crackers.

Added to the Remond's difficulties was the problem of irresponsible help. The Cafe opens at 6:30 a. m. for the breakfast trade but one morning the help didn't show up until 10.

Remond, who, according to his wife, "is a little temperamental—I guess all artists are," fired the latecomers just before the noon rush-hour. A few of his regular customers, however, pitched in. They washed dishes, waited on table, swept up and tided the Cafe over one of its greatest crises.

The restaurant is open to all, from construction workers to the City's leading executives. Two City policemen, faithful devotees of Remond's "wonderful cooking and homey atmosphere," were seen the other night, sweeping up and helping put out the garbage. At noon, employes of neighboring fish, packing and other companies swarm to Remond's like bees to honey. When the place became too crowded, various companies obligingly staggered their employes' lunch hours according to Mrs. Remond's schedule.

A sizable segment of the restaurant's trade comes after its normal closing hour of 7 p. m. when parties of five or more persons who have made reservations a day in advance are served the quintessence of good cooking.

In addition to standard dishes known to gourmets the world over, Georges, together with Burrel Fowler who has been with him for the past five years, prepare delicious salads, boned shad "a la Georges," crepes suzetes, vichyssoisse and a countless variety of other comestibles known only as "something Georges cooked up."

The Remonds' stock in trade is good cooking and friendliness. Some patrons have been so impressed that they have offered him up to $100,000 to open a restaurant on the other side of town. But Mrs. Remond expressed the feeling of the establishment with her comment:

"The people of Peters Street gave us our start and we're going to stay here. We believe that if persons like our food, they'll come here from Peachtree Street or anywhere else."

And they do.

By CLARK HOWELL, JR.

"The first thing I made them do was to write home to let their mamas know they were here, and they've got to write home every day."

That was the first requisite required of the 200 boys of the Georgia Boys' State by Maj. Charlie Morgan, of the American Legion, who is director of the Boys' State.

More than 200 high school juniors from almost every county of the State came to the Georgia Military Academy at College Park yesterday for a week of participation in real life government.

"Why, they'll learn more civics during the week than they could learn in a year from books," Major Morgan said enthusiastically, beaming at the late-comers as they sat down to write the first letter home. "And they're the finest bunch of boys I've seen in a long time," the veteran of two World Wars explained, saying that these boys would be the leaders in their schools during the coming year.

Chances are the letters home during the succeeding days of the Georgia Boys' State will be short and snappy as there is a full schedule planned. The boys have been assigned to eight cities, each city named for a former president. There will be elections of the mayor and councilmen, appointment of policemen, setting up of the Recorder's Court and proper punishment dealt out to offenders of the city ordinances, and establishment of laws necessary to run a metropolitan city.

Toward the end of the week the community will climax the formation of their local governments with the election of a governor.

Major Morgan offered an emphatic "No" when someone asked if current political movements in Georgia would play a part in the political education of the Georgia Boys' State.

"We're interested mainly in teaching these boys the operations of government," he said, "although we are going to make a tour of business establishments and the State Capitol Thursday. Of course, we would like for the boys to meet as many of the state officials as possible," he added.

The program will be well rounded with athletics and entertainment, the complete facilities of G. M. A. having been turned over to the use of the boys.

Col. W. R. Brewster, President of the Georgia Military Academy, made a formal address of welcome to the boys last night, and it was announced that the most outstanding boy of the group will be awarded a four-year course at G. M. A. as a gift of the school.

The program is sponsored by the American Legion Department of Georgia, assisted by the Georgia State Patrol.

Feeding 200 hungry boys three meals a day would seem a tough job, but one young fellow lifted his head out of the Sunday funnies to comment on the dinner. "That sure was fine fried chicken."

Compromise In UNO On Franco Seen

NEW YORK, June 9—(AP)—The United Nations Economic and Social Council goes into its third week of deliberations Monday, split on more than half a dozen important issues but still hoping to conclude the present session by June 18 or 20.

On almost all issues, the Big Three Nations are divided along the same lines as in the Security Council—Russia on one side and the United States and Great Britain on the other.

Whether the Council will finish on schedule depends largely upon the accomplishments of committees which have been given the difficult task of reconciling the divergent views expressed during the Council's 10 lengthy meetings.

A compromise proposal on the issue of Franco Spain was in prospect.

A subcommittee investigating the Falangist regime recommended that if Generalissimo Franco remains in power in September the General Assembly should call upon the entire membership to break relations with the Spanish Government.

Other major controversies, which the Committees will have to resolve, include the following:

1. Whether the United Nations should admit non-member nations to such organizations as the World Health Agency and such other non-political organizations as the Statistical Organization and World Transportation Agencies.

2. Whether the United Nations should aid war-devastated countries which are not UN members.

3. Whether the World Federation of Trade Unions, which includes the CIO but not the American Federation of Labor, should be given special rights to have a representative sit in meetings of the Council and express the views of labor.

4. Whether the Council should take steps immediately to promote freedom of information or whether it should, as the Russians suggest, take up first the questions of discrimination and the rights of minorities.

These, although by no means all the important issues under dispute, will serve as examples of the problems facing the Committees.

Byrnes Going to Paris Braced for Molotov

WASHINGTON, June 9—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes leaves for another session of the Big Four Foreign Ministers at Paris this week facing a possible showdown with Foreign Minister Molotov, of Russia, on whether the postwar world is to be one world or two.

Byrnes has set himself a deadline on European peace-making. He is determined some sort of treaties with Italy and the Eastern European countries must be worked out this year.

Byrnes is scheduled to leave Thursday with the same advisers, including Sens. Connally, Democrat, Texas, and Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, whom he had with him at the previous Paris session which ended three weeks ago.

Jet Planes Point For Capital Flight

MARCH FIELD, Calif., June 9 (AP)—Four jet-propelled P-80 planes of the 412th Fighter Group will take off here Wednesday, the Army announced Sunday, on an attempted one-day round trip to Washington, D. C., during which the pilots expect to eat breakfast here, luncheon in Washington, and dinner back here.

Toccoa Youth Slays Father With Shotgun

Constitution State News Service.

TOCCOA, June 9—Enraged at seeing his father about to strike his mother, a 21-year-old Toccoa youth late Saturday night shot to death Henry Kelly, 48, in the yard of their home six miles south of here, Sgt. H. C. Landston, in charge of the Georgia State Patrol Office at Toccoa, announced Sunday.

Sgt. Landston said Plumer Kelly had claimed he found his father and mother in an argument and that he was about to strike Mrs. Kelly with a heavy instrument. Young Kelly then got the shotgun from the house and fired the shot which killed his father almost instantly. The son claimed his father had been drinking.

Young Kelly then notified the Fred Northcutt Funeral Home, who sent for the State Patrol, Landston said, and when apprehended he confessed the killing.

Kelly is being held in Stephens County jail.

Kelly's funeral services will be conducted Monday at 11 a. m. at the Tates Creek Baptist Church with the Rev. Everett Brady officiating. Fred Northcutt Funeral Home in charge.

Besides Plumer, he is survived by his wife, three daughters, and another son.

AFRAID TO SLEEP DUE TO INDIGESTION

One lady said a few days ago that she used to be afraid to go to bed at night. She was swollen with stomach gas, which always got worse when she went to bed, and the gas would rise up in her throat after she lay down and would nearly choke her. She couldn't lie flat. Had to prop herself up on pillows. Recently this lady got INNER-AID and now says gas is gone, stomach feels fine, bowels are regular and she can go to bed and sleep soundly.

INNER-AID contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get INNER-AID. Sold by all drug stores here in Atlanta.

Exchange Clubs Elect Rome Businessman

ROME, June 9—(AP)—A. D. Littlejohn, Rome business executive, was elected president of Georgia State Exchange Clubs at the twenty-first annual convention. He succeeds Hugh H. Hill, of Macon.

Others officers are: Millard A. Beckum, Augusta, Vice President; Lamar Baxter, Rome, Secretary-Treasurer; Henry A. Stewart, Cedartown; Lowell Cummings, Griffin; J. W. Morgan, Savannah; L. C. Kyles, Columbus; Harold Brotherton, Rossville, and Pierre Howard, Decatur, members of the State Board of Control.

The new officers were installed by M. Allen Barth, Miami, Fla., a member of the Board of Control of the National Exchange Clubs, who was principal speaker at a luncheon.

Dr. William Jesse Baird, President of Berry Schools, addressed a luncheon.

The Griffin Exchange Club won first prize for the best exhibit, with Columbus second and Macon third.

Don't Get 'Drunk on Power' Rev. Gardner Tells Class

Constitution State News Service.

ATHENS, June 9—Members of the University of Georgia's one hundred and forty-third graduating class were urged by the Rev. William V. Gardner, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Atlanta, not to get "drunk on power, self, prejudice, or greed," at the annual commencement exercises held in the University Chapel Sunday afternoon.

"You," Dr. Gardner told the 330 members of the 1946 class, "are living the most momentous period of the world's history since the conversion of Paul. Doubtless we stand at the ending of one age and at the beginning of another."

Citing the story of Noah as a text, he told of how after Noah had survived the great flood through the grace of God and had received the promise through the rainbow that never again would a flood destroy the world, he went out and got himself drunk. "With all the need of the world's reconstruction, Noah was drunk."

"You as young citizens of this State and other states are facing a situation just as demanding as that which faced Noah. We must not get drunk on power, self, greed, and prejudice," Dr. Gardner emphasized.

"In the face of such a catastrophe, we can tell the truth. We can cast our ballot the way our conscience dictates. We can link ourselves with the church. If you believe in the American way of life, for God's sake, go to it now. There are two powers today, the atom bomb and the church. If we don't look up, we will blow up," he continued.

The service began at 4:30 p. m. with academic procession of the members of the University graduating class and faculty.

Following the processional, "Allegro" from Beethoven, played by Miss Lucile Kimble, the congregation sang the hymn, "O Worship the King." Dr. E. L. Hill, Pastor of the Athens First Presbyterian Church, pronounced the invocation.

Miss Frances Ann Hubbard sang "When Thou Art Near." The service was closed by the singing of the hymn, "All Hail the Power," the benediction was given by Dr. T. W. Reed, Registrar Emeritus of the University. Dr. Harmon W. Caldwell, President, presided.

New Kind of Strip Tease Makes Auto Owners Unhappy

If you happen to be a person lucky enough to own a car, and especially a fancy car with an external load of shiny fog lights, fender skirts, grille guards and hub caps, and if you happen to live in North Atlanta, you had best quit gloating over your vehicle long enough to peep out the front door and see how much of it is left.

This is the opinion expressed by Detective Superintendent E. R. Hilderbrand, who says there is an organization operating in North Atlanta which specializes in stripping automobiles of anything that isn't welded on. They seem to have a very strong desire for hub caps. The Detective attributes this activity to the fact that hub caps, and almost all types of automobile fixtures, are gadgets which, due to their scarcity, are held very dear to enterprising black-marketeers.

Just so you won't think the man is joking, police records show 40 cars have been stripped since May 10. During the past 30 days over two dozen proud car owners on the North Side have suffered immeasurable shock upon finding their once "dogged-up" automobiles in various stages of nakedness, sans everything that could be taken off.

Police believe that the stripping racket was started by a group of boys several months ago. It was just a prank at first, but a taste of the ready money that under-the-counter dealers offered for the accessories soon changed the avocation into a vocation.

The strippers prefer to risk getting caught for classy chrome fixtures whenever possible, so it seems the only solution is to paint your chrome black, lock up your car, or invest in a shotgun and start sitting up all night. In the meantime, the police will be doing what they can.

Police Aid Asked To Find Atlantan

The aid of Atlanta Police has been requested in a search for Edward Booker, 27, an employe of the W. T. Shackelford Company, who disappeared after leaving Atlanta en route to Thomaston at 9:30 a. m. Thursday.

A spokesman for the Shackelford Company told police Booker was driving a U-Drive-It automobile and was not heard from after leaving Atlanta. The car was a 1942 green Ford four-door sedan bearing the 1946 tag number E-22135. Booker is described as weighing 155 pounds, 5 feet 11 ins. in height, with blue eyes and blond hair.

Booker has been employed with the Shackelford Company for six months. Prior to that he was with the Mayfield Refrigeration Company for eight months.

Industries Eye South, Says New York Banker

By DANIEL BAILEY.

Industrialists of the North and East are eyeing the South as a fertile site for manufacturing plants now more than ever before, and more than any other section of the country.

This opinion came yesterday from Baxter Jackson, President of the Chemical National Bank of New York, one of the nation's largest.

"And the South's industrialization and relative reasons," he said, "give it the brightest economic future in history, bright as any other part of the country, if not brighter."

"One of the principal reasons," said Jackson, who is visiting his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Maddox, here, "is there's more room for industry to breathe.

"For example, the percentage of persons employed in manufacturing plants is much smaller than in the North and East, which means the new plants would have little difficulty obtaining plenty of personnel, and they would have a wider and better choice."

Jackson, whose bank boasts deposits amounting to $1,300,000,000, said another reason was the "general belief that farming Southerners couldn't become skilled mechanical and technical workers has been exploded."

He cited instances of a woolen mill in South Carolina, a rubber company in Tennessee and several electrical plants "where they've operated entirely with Southern labor and grown and expanded like a fire of pine knots."

Himself a Southerner, Jackson, who left Nashville, Tenn., in 1920 to take a post in the Chemical National when the bank's deposits amounted to a relatively small $100,000,000, said industrializing the South would by no means endanger its position in agricultural fields.

"Sure," he said with the remains of a Dixie drawl, "you'll take lots of folks off the farms. But agriculture is so mechanized you only need one-tenth the number of hands you did 30 years ago.

"And the science of agriculture is being studied so closely now and by so many more people that a man can get three or four times as much out of each acre.

"Anyhow, farming itself is becoming industrialized: consider the hundreds of small packing plants that now insure food getting to the market before it rots on the ground."

Additionally, he said, industry would boost its economy generally "because science is discovering so many ways to use farm products as raw materials in manufacturing.

One sure sign of prosperity, the affable banker declared, is the amount of money people are saving. According to his observations Southerners and the rest of the nation, contrary to general belief, are saving more money than ever before in history.

"It's not that they're afraid of the future," he said. "It's just a good old American custom to see there's plenty in the pantry as well as on the table."

And the gentleman from Tennessee does not see any "period of chaos following removal of OPA controls.

No one can say the South does not know what it is to save, Jack- economic foundation today "is due largely to Southern folks putting a certain amount of money in the bank each month.

"The South's industrialization thus far can be attributed almost entirely to saving—both by individuals and corporations. And there'll be more of it, more saving and more industry, until the South is as rich as any part of the nation, far richer than the Southern farmers and merchants of Scarlett O'Hara's day ever dreamed."

Youth Leaders Complete Course At Fernbank

Thirty Atlanta youth leaders have completed a course in camp crafts and nature teaching at the Children's Nature Museum, Fernbank Forest.

The course, sponsored by the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls, was open to all youth leaders.

Adults, being groomed for camp counselorship, went each day on field trips and studied local flora and fauna. They studied amphibian life, bird life and tree life. They planned and cooked outdoor meals.

They learned techniques of nature craft—how to make blueprints of leaves; how to make plaster casts of wild animal tracks, and how to weave baskets from honeysuckle vines and pine straw.

Instructors of the course were Kenneth M. Lewis, Curator of Fernbank Forest's Childrens Nature Museum; John Ripley Forbes, Director of the Hornaday Foundation, which sponsors children's museums, and Miss Margie Phillips, former science teacher.

Mrs. J. C. Harris, Girl Scout Day camp co-ordinator, and Mrs. Elmer Becker, Camp Fire Day camp coordinator, assisted with the camp craft instruction.

Mrs. Harris stressed the need in this area for more people over 18 to become camp counselors. She urged more adults to take other leadership courses which the various youth organizations will offer separately this summer.

Plan Elaborate Commencement At Georgia Tech

The last group of engineering students to complete the wartime accelerated courses of the Georgia School of Technology will be graduated Friday, June 21.

For the first time in six years, besides the commencement exercises, there will be other functions on the program for the students, parents, alumni and citizens of Atlanta and Georgia.

The full program includes the following events:

Military-Naval honors and awards, Rose Bowl Field at 11 a. m. Thursday.

Georgia Tech smoker for senior students, alumni and faculty, Brittain Dining Hall, at 8:30 p. m., Thursday.

Special services in neighboring churches Sunday morning.

Academic honors and awards, Chemistry Lecture Room, at 11 a. m., Thursday, June 20.

President's reception for students, parents and faculty, Georgia Tech YMCA, at 3 p. m. Friday, June 21.

Commencement exercises, Auditroium-Gymnasium, at 5 p. m., Friday, June 21. Diplomas will be given to 135 graduating students and commissions in the U. S. Navy and U. S. Marines to 85 Naval trainees.

Dr. W. L. Batt, President of SKF Industries and Vice Chairman of the War Production Board, will deliver the commencement address.

Invite Bill Brady To Film Pow-Wow

William L. Nab Major In Germany On Jewels' Theft Charge

WASHINGTON, June 9 — (AP) — Arrest of an Army Major in Germany in connection with the theft of the $1,500,000 dynastic jewels of the former reigning House of Hesse left one remaining suspect at large Sunday — a discharged Army Corporal who stumbled on the treasure buried deep in a sub-basement of Kronberg Castle.

Announcement at Frankfurt that Maj. David F. Watson, of Burlingame, Cal., had been arrested was expected and it was believed the arrest of the Corporal was imminent.

Col. J. W. Durant, of Falls Church, Va., and his WAC Captain bride, Mrs. Kathleen B. Nash Durant, of Hudson, Wis., are being held incommunicado in Army custody here after allegedly confessing that they master-minded the plot.

The Colonel and his lady have surrendered all of the loot—diamonds by the handful, sapphires, pearls, rubies, jade and bejeweled relics — which now repose in a heavily-guarded War Department vault for return to their rightful owners, members of the German House of Hesse.

All face military court-martial in the European theater but Army officials have declined to reveal the specific charges that will be brought against them.

Watson's arrest was disclosed in dispatches from Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's Headquarters at Frankfurt which said he was picked up Friday night by agents of the Army's CID, or Criminal Division.

Details were lacking but it was assumed that he will be charged with helping Durant smuggle the stolen jewels out of Europe. Col. Ralph W. Pierce, the Army's criminal investigator here, believes that Durant, an Air Force officer, brought the jewelry to this country by Army plane after removing them from their mountings.

Durant and his bride, routed from their bed in Chicago's ill-fated LaSalle Hotel, broke down under relentless grilling and lie-detector tests and led Army authorities to the stolen loot.

Mrs. Durant confessed first. She had hidden about half the treasure at the Hudson, Wis., home of her sister who, Pierce said, "apparently was unaware of its value." Some of the bejeweled gold-plated knives and forks were being used as kitchenware since members of the family were unaware of their source or value.

Durant finally broke down and confessed Friday night. He led authorities to a baggage locker in the Illinois Central Railroad's Chicago station where the last of the missing jewels were found in a writing paper box.

Pierce said the jewels had been pried from their mountings and were lying loose in the box, apparently ready for disposal to some "fence." As far as is known, he said, the Durants had not disposed of any of the loot.

Army officials would not divulge details of the Durants' confessions, pointing out that while they have confessed they "have not yet been convicted."

But they emphasized that Mrs. Durant committed the actual theft.

Morris Flays Harris' Stand On Talmadge

STATESBORO, Ga., June 9—(AP) William S. Morris, Augusta publisher who defeated Roy Harris for State Representative in the recent Richmond County primary, took the stump here to oppose Harris' sponsorship of Eugene Talmadge in the gubernatorial race.

Morris spoke just before James V. Carmichael made an address in his campaign for Governor.

Declaring that Harris, former Speaker of the House, "has jumped on Gene Talmadge's coattails," Morris told the audience:

"Now the professional politicians are together. They are not interested in the people of Georgia, they are interested in what they can get out of it."

Morris, who publishes the Augusta Chronicle, was leader of the Independent group which broke the long rule of the Cracker party in Richmond County.

GOOD TO MOTHER?

Sister Says Goebbels Shunned Her

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

MOERLACH, Germany, June 9 (AP) — Hitler's propaganda minister, Paul Joseph Goebbels, who painted himself as a devoted family man, rarely saw his aged, widowed mother and never contributed to her support, his sister said Sunday.

Goebbels' mother, Frau Katherine Goebbels, 79; her daughter, Frau Kimmich, and son-in-law, Max Kimmich and their 18-month-old daughter are living like impoverished peasants in two rooms of a dingy farmhouse 15 miles outside Munich.

Their whereabouts was disclosed Sunday by Allied Military Government authorities, who said the trio had ignored a final order from Goebbels for all of his relatives to perish in the fall of Berlin.

The aged mother lived under an assumed name until her son-in-law voluntarily revealed their true identities Friday. Trembling and almost incoherent with the weaknesses of age, Frau Goebbels was stirring a pot of thin potato soup on an open wood fire as she was interviewed.

She was unable to talk about her son or his suicide. The daughter, however, reluctantly revealed a little about their infrequent associations with Joseph, her elder by 16 years.

"We did not see Joseph often, although we lived in Berlin, and I know he never gave mother any money or helped support her," she said.

Kimmich said their unwillingness to commit suicide at Goebbels' behest was a "family matter." He implied that they fled Berlin just before its fall so that the Propaganda Minister's order could be evaded.

Military Government officials said there was no evidence that any of the trio had been members of the Nazi party.

Methodist Group Regrets Political Race Issue

Gillman issued a statement telling of the resolutions adopted by the convention.

These resolutions include:

1. Approval of OPA extension without crippling amendments and asking CIO members to telegraph Sen. George and Sen. Russell, asking them to support such a bill;

2. Disapproval of the Case Anti-Strike Bill and urged CIO members to telegraph President Truman, asking him to veto it.

3. Asked for the defeat of the Bulwinkle Bill and went on record in favor of equalized freight rates.

4. Urged pay for Georgia school teachers on a basis equal to the national average pay.

5. Approved moves to bring about closer relations between labor and the farmers.

In order that he might have more time to engage in CIO organizational work, Gillman asked to be relieved of his job as President of the Political Action Committee. The convention acceded to this request and elected in his place Charles Mathias. The new president of Georgia's PAC is a member of Local 2401 of the United Steelworkers. MOULTRIE, June 9—Presiding at a meeting of the Colquitt County Talmadge Club Saturday afternoon W. M. Campbell, principal figure in a political controversy here last week, said, "we had a row among ourselves but we have kissed and made up." Prior to that time the Club had passed a resolution characterizing "as false and inspired by the opposition," a news story based on an open letter by the Rev. E. J. Touchton written to former Governor Eugene Talmadge and quoting as having charged that "Campbell not only had been kicked out as chairman of the Club, but had been requested not to appear on the platform when Talmadge spoke here." The resolution went on to say, "no member of this Club has asked for, or wanted, the resignation of our chairman, but on the contrary have always, and do now give him our unqualified indorsement."

The Rev. Mr. Touchton, venerable retired Baptist minister, during the meeting assumed full responsibility for writing the letter to Talmadge, but said newspapers to which copies were sent were enjoined against publishing "unless it is carried in full." He added, "I still stand back of the letter and am glad I sent it if it took such a step to bring to light what happened." In response to a direct question as to why the entire letter was not published, a Moultrie newsman told the 80-year-old clergyman that part of it might have been considered libelous by W. E. Aycock, whose selection as master of ceremonies at the Talmadge meeting here June 1 brought about the dissension. During the meeting both Campbell and Martin L. Bivins, Moultrie lawyer and real estate man, who had been interviewed in the development of the story based on the Rev. Mr. Touchton's letter admitted they have been correctly quoted.

Campbell had said the afternoon before Talmadge was to speak in Moultrie he went to Bivin's office to discuss with him plans for the next day. There he was told by a man whose name he didn't know "plans have been completed. Ed Aycock is to be master of ceremonies. We want you to come to the meeting, but don't take a seat on the platform, find you a chair out in front near the microphone." At this the old age pension leader asserted, "I remarked if Ed Aycock is to be master of ceremonies, make him chairman also." He then left, he related, and didn't attend the Talmadge meeting. "Resolution, no resolution, there was a split," he reiterated Sunday, "but it has been healed." Aycock, in a speech before the club, charged "that Grady Adams, Moultrie newspaperman, had been bitterly opposed to Talmadge ever since he lost his job as oil inspector after J. J. Brown was defeated for Commissioner of Agriculture by Talmadge." He also asserted that "Adams' bias caused him to refer to the Townsend Plan as old age pensions.

Mufti was free to go and come as he wished.

The Mufti is expected to address the Arab League Conference within the next 24 hours. Dr. Bernard Joseph, head of the political department of the Jewish Agency, summoned the Agency's Executive Committee to a secret session Sunday night.

An absolute news blackout on anything connected with the Mufti was being enforced in Palestine. Newspapers have been forbidden for some time to mention him. One that did last week was suppressed for two weeks.

The British Broadcasting Corporation, however, was broadcasting news about the Mufti and many Arabs in remote villages shifted their radios from Radio Palestine to BBC to hear the news.

There was widespread belief that the Mufti might soon be back as leader of all Middle Eastern Arabs against the Jews.

The British position in the Middle East was ticklish in 1939, and they tried to get their hands on the Mufti, knowing his pro-Nazi sympathies and fearing that he would lead the Arab world into the arms of the Axis.

He eluded the British three times in 1939. He fled from Jerusalem to Baghdad, skipped from Baghdad to Tehran, and when the British and Russians took over Iran, he disappeared into Turkey and turned up in Germany. There he remained until the French found him and took him to Paris.

A little ship with a broken engine arrived at Haifa's refugee quay last night with 709 illegal Jewish immigrants on board. The refugees — 400 of them from Greece, the rest from Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia—emerged from the 150-ton wooden vessel's dark and filthy holds and were taken to the Athlit Clearance Camp, inside Athlit Crusaders' fort.

British Deny Flying Mufti to Holy Land

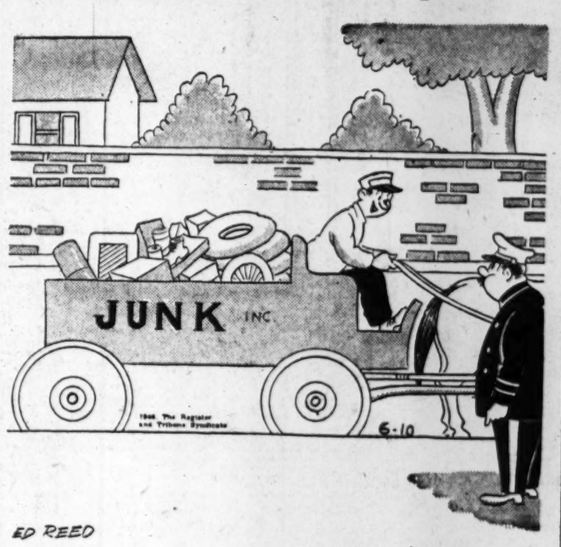

PARIS, June 9—(UP)—An indignant British Embassy spokesman here denied today that the former Grand Mufti of Jerusalem had escaped from France in a British plane.

He said the Mufti "definitely" had been held under house arrest by French authorities, adding, "I've got to hand it to the fellow —that's the fourth time he's eluded us."

Diplomatic circles believed the Mufti had procured an American air priority with French help and left Wednesday by U. S. Air Transport command under an assumed name for Cairo where he changed to a British plane.

Talmadge Declared Ready To Stump

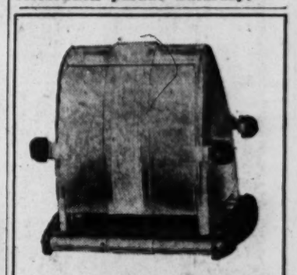

"Talmadge is entirely well now and will fulfill his speaking engagements tomorrow," a spokesman at Eugene Talmadge's gubernatorial campaign headquarters in the Henry Grady Hotel said yesterday.

Saturday the former governor was reported ill with a cold and sore throat. Friends said he was taking a short rest.

He is scheduled to speak at Winder at 11:30 a. m. today and at Atlanta over station WSB tonight at 6:30 o'clock.

BODY IN FIRE DEBRIS—Buried in the debris in the Canfield Hotel fire in Dubuque, Iowa, is this body (see arrow) of a guest apparently trapped by the flames in one of the hotel's rooms. Only a portion of the upper half of the body is visible as it is covered by the rubble of the ceiling above, which collapsed.

RESCUED FROM BLAZING HOTEL—Firemen are shown assisted women guests from the burning Canfield Hotel, Dubuque, Iowa, early Sunday. Flames can be seen at left center, and smoke is pouring from the window from which the guests were removed. Fourteen persons are known to have lost their lives in the conflagration.

HOTEL FIRE

Dubuque; Victor Ortalani, Woodside, N. Y., Ethel Edwards Parsons, New York, N. Y.

No Southerners were among those listed as injured.

Eight or 10 policemen kept a day-long vigil at the task of probing the hulk of the 55-year-old hotel for additional victims, but Kirch said they were handicapped by caved-in floors and deep piles of debris. One officer said it might be days before it was determined definitely whether the wreckage hid more bodies.

40,000 SPECTATORS

A total of approximately 40,000 curious spectators had crowded the fire scene by midafternoon, the police estimated, with the peak crowd around 50,000 shortly after the churches were dismissed. Even firemen from near-by communities were attracted to the scene, and automobile licenses from Illinois and Wisconsin and many northeastern Iowa counties were commonplace. A contingent of State Highway policemen was on guard duty.

A number of church services included prayers for the victims.

Sister Edmunda, Mother Superior at Mercy Hospital, where all the injured were taken, said "it seems that all the patients in the hospital will recover with the exception of Mrs. (William) Canfield, Sr. (wife of the hotel owner), who is in an extremely critical condition."

As in last Wednesday's fire at the Hotel La Salle, Chicago, the blaze at the Canfield broke out about a half hour after midnight (Central Daylight Time) in the basement and in the vicinity of the cocktail lounge. Sixty persons lost their lives in the Chicago fire.

The alarm was turned in at 12:39 and firemen reported the fire under control at 3 a. m. By that time the four-story main section of the hotel was virtually razed, with only the brick walls standing. Most of the dead were in that section.

The hotel annex, of six stories and 21 years old, suffered less damage, chiefly from smoke and water.

The Canfield, located at Fourth and Central Aves., is the second largest hotel in this city of 44,000 population.

When the first fire-fighting equipment arrived, many persons were at the hotel's windows screaming for help. Nets were strung beneath the windows and ladders were hoisted, saving the lives of nearly threescore guests.

NO "INTERFERENCE"

Chief Kirch said "they can talk all they want to about interference by civilians in the Chicago fire, but we didn't have it here."

Kirch did not divulge the source of any information he might have on civilian interference at the La Salle Hotel fire, and a check in Chicago revealed no official complaint along that line.

Kirch also praised the members of the City Police Department who joined in combatting the fire. Policemen hurried in and out of the building performing rescues and directing firemen in their battle, Kirch said, and added that one patrolman, Harold Hodges, rescued several himself.

O. N. Hanes (address not given) tied bed sheets together and used them to climb from his fourth floor window to a firemen's ladder, which reached only to the third floor.

Mrs. James Donahue, executive Secretary of the Dubuque County Red Cross, said her organization set up an emergency office in Mercy Hospital to assist in treating the patients and identifying the victims.

Karl Page, operator of the Page Hotel across the street from the Canfield, told reporters a male guest from the Canfield went to the Page and said he had been in the Chicago hotel fire and lost everything he had with him. He also lost all his possessions at the Canfield, he said. Page neglected to learn his name and said he didn't see the stranger again.

New England Storm Kills 11

BOSTON, June 8 — (UP) — Eleven persons were killed and scores injured Saturday night when a freak hail and lightning storm swept over New England, uprooting trees, disrupting power lines and causing several thousand dollars damage.

The death toll mounted tonight with disclosure that five persons drowned in Twin Lakes at Salisbury, Conn., when their fishing boat overturned during the height of the storm.

Of the six victims accounted for earlier, two were electrocuted, two were killed by a falling tree, one was a highway fatality and another drowned when his sailboat capsized.

Professors Censure Texas University

CHICAGO, June 9 —(AP)— The Council of the American Association of University Professors Sunday voted to place the University of Texas on its list of "Censured Administrations" because of "attempts by a politically dominant group to impose its social and educational views on the University."

Dr. Ralph E. Himstead, General Secretary of the Association, said the action was the outgrowth of the dismissal of Dr. Homer P. Rainey as President in 1944 and the dismissal of three members of the economics staff.

Col. James Keelin Fetes Gen. Hershey

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national head of Selective Service, was guest of honor at a party presented by Col. James Keelin, retiring head of Selective Service, at Keelin's farm on Peachtree-Dunwoody Road yesterday.

Hershey came here, following a tour of the South, to present the Legion of Merit medal to Keelin.

The gathering was attended largely by officers and field men of State Headquarters, including Col. H. Cliff Hatcher, who succeeds Keelin, and Maj. Sam G. Adler, Assistant Director. Attending also were Clark Howell, Publisher of The Constitution, and Mrs. Howell.

Drowned After Riding Horse Into Lake in Cobb County

A freak drowning resulting when he rode his horse into a small lake on his property near Mt. Bethel yesterday took the life of E. G. Brandt, of 106 Avery Dr., N. E.

Roy Hardin, of the Marietta Police Department, quoted a worker on the property and Mrs. Brandt, a witness to the accident, as saying Brandt apparently was attempting to teach the horse to ford the lake when the animal bogged down in the mud and Brandt fell.

Mrs. Brandt ran into the water to help her husband, but became entangled in roots and had to return to shore.

John W. Williams, Cobb County Coroner, has ordered an inquest for 11 a. m. today.

Police dragged the lake for an hour and a half before recovering Brandt's body at 5:30 p. m. Marietta firemen attempted to revive Brandt with a respirator.

It was reported Brandt just recently had the lake constructed. He was head of the Southern Vacuum Cleaner Service. In addition to his wife he is survived by two children, Sarah Brandt and Edward Brandt, both of Atlanta, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Brandt, of Merrill, Wisconsin.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by the Mayes Ward Funeral Home in Marietta.

Jewish Vets Ask Klan Quiz

SWAN LAKE, N. Y., June 9—(AP)—A resolution urging Federal and State Governments to investigate the Ku Klux Klan was passed Sunday at the closing session of the sixteenth annual state convention of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States.

The resolution urged the Governments to determine "the extent" to which the Klan and other organizations "which spread racial and religious hatred are violating Federal and State laws."

A second resolution passed by the 1,500 delegates urged the President and Congress to press Great Britain for the opening of Palestine to 100,000 Jews as recommended recently by an Anglo-American commission.

Surplus Automobiles Denied Federal Agencies

WASHINGTON, June 9—(AP)—Federal agencies, formerly the largest buyers of surplus automobiles, can't get them any more. They're all set aside for veterans.

The Senate Appropriations Committee Saturday voted to delete from appropriations bills a requirement that agencies needing cars must buy surplus rather than new automobiles.

Fifth District Legion Meeting

The Fifth District Convention of the American Legion will be held at the City Auditorium in Atlanta starting at 7:30 p. m., Saturday.

Color-bearers and color-guards, in Legion or service uniforms, representing the 21 Posts will mass colors. Following the massing of colors there will be a brief tribute to the flag.

An expert degree team will conduct a mass initiation ceremony according to the American Legion ritual for the thousands of Legionnaires who have not been formally initiated. After the initiation new officers for the Fifth District will be elected.

Browder Waives Flight to U. S.

STOCKHOLM, June 9—(UP)—Earl Browder, erstwhile leader of the Communist Party in the United States, failed to use his reservation on the American Airlines plane for New York Sunday.

Browder had cabled a request for a reservation on Sunday's flight from Moscow two weeks ago. He has been there consulting Communist Party leaders.

Browder said in Moscow that he would not be able to complete his business for two or three days. He said his negotiations with Russian leaders had been delayed by the death of President Mikhail Kalinin, which preoccupied persons he had wanted to see.

Australian Press Hails U. S. Lend-Lease Trade

SYDNEY, Australia, June 9—(AP)—Australian newspapers hailed in big headlines Sunday settlement of lend-lease agreements with the United States as a bargain for Australia and a harbinger of greatly increased trade across the Pacific.

The Sydney Sun declared the agreement saved the commonwealth $325,000,000. The Sunday Telegraph said that as a result of the agreement automobiles, gasoline, and cotton goods from the United States will flow into the country.

BRUNSWICK, June 9—The Florida law which imposes a three-day wait before a marriage license can be obtained has doubled the work of Glynn County Ordinary Edwin W. Dart, who reports that he married at least one Florida couple every day in May.

Last month the number of marriage licenses issued in this city, only 40 miles north of the Florida line, reached a total of 102, the highest number for a single month in the history of the county. At least half the licenses were issued to couples from Florida, Dart said.

Plan Defense For A-Bomb

WASHINGTON, June 9—(AP)—Rear Adm. Albert C. Read, Sr., commander of the first Navy plane to fly the Atlantic, said Sunday that potential defenses against the atomic bomb already are in the outline stage.

Preparing to retire after 40 years of service, the 59-year-old pioneer flier and wartime commander of the fleet air command forces said A-bomb defense "won't be a passive one."

He hinted to a reporter of things that until recently appeared to be Jules Verne fantasies but which some Navy men have discussed. In this realm are the possibilities of changing ocean currents to alter the climate of an enemy nation, and bacterial warfare. But he preferred to stick to a discussion of atomic age actualities.

Attack Beaten Off, Woman Reports

Willie Williams, 39, Negro, of 903 McDaniel St., S. W., was arrested and charged with the attempted assault of a white woman of a Memorial Drive address at about 4 a. m. Sunday, according to Radio Patrolmen J. W. Cody and R. V. Paschal.

The Patrolmen said they were on Memorial Drive when they heard two shots and saw a Negro run across the street and go under a house. They captured the Negro.

Investigation revealed, they said, that Williams had entered a room in which two women were sleeping and was getting into the bed with them when one of the women awoke and screamed.

The Negro grabbed the woman and threatened to kill her if she did not quieten, the officers said they were told, but she broke away and ran from the room screaming, arousing neighbors. The Negro fled from the house, was fired at by a neighbor, and was captured by the Patrolmen, the officers said.

Grady Hospital physicians said the woman had not been assaulted.

Italy's Exiled Queen Arrives in Portugal

LISBON, June 9—(AP)—Queen Marie Jose of Italy and her four children reached Portugal Saturday night on the Italian Cruiser Duca Deglia Abruzzi.

They were expected to remain aboard the cruiser, anchored in the Tagus River estuary near here, until the formal issuance of a proclamation that Italy is a Republic.

Mihailovic Faces Trial For Treason

BELGRADE, June 9—(AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic, once hailed as a hero of Yugoslavia for leading his Chetniks in resistance to the Nazi invaders, will go on trial here Monday with 23 other defendants charged with collaboration and treason.

The prosecution will attempt to show that rather than being a hero, the Chetnik leader and former war minister maintained relations with the German occupation commanders and leaders of the Nazi's puppet government.

As preparations for the trial went forward, two notes from the United States State Department, asking that American soldiers be permited to testify for the defense, were unanswered. Foreign Minister Sanoji Simic said that "any further correspondence on this subject would indeed permit interference with our internal affairs." However, testimony of British officers has been forwarded for use at the trial.

The trial, originally set for mid-May, was postponed by the Yugoslav government.

The prosecution will attempt to show a close tie-up among the forces under Mihailovic, former minister of war in King Peter II's government-in-exile; other leaders in Peter's government, and the Yugoslav government during the Nazi occupation, headed by Premier Field Marshal Milan Nedic.

Nedic himself was originally held for trial but committed suicide last January in a seven-story leap at a prison here.

Church Folk Pay Tribute to The Rev. Lawson

Negro Baptists and members of the Atlanta Baptist Ministers' Union recently sponsored an anniversary celebration honoring the Rev. E. D. Lawson, a member of the Baptist Church for 44 years and secretary of the Atlanta Baptist Ministers' Union for five years.

Members of the congregations Rev. Lawson had served gathered at Wheat Street Baptist Church for the services. The Rev. F. M. Hutchinson, the Rev. H. J. Thomas, the Rev. G. W. Jordan, the Rev. M. J. Jackson, Dr. Roland Smith, the Rev. W. W. Weatherspool, the Rev. L. M. Terrill and the Rev. J. R. Lovett gave talks praising the work of the well-known Baptist pastor.

The group presented the Rev. Lawson with $244.75 in appreciation of his work in Atlanta and throughout Georgia.

The Rev. Lawson has been a member of the Home Mission Board of the National Baptist Convention for the past 20 years.

Rivals Clash In Paraguay

BUENOS AIRES, June 9—(UP)—A dispatch from Asuncion reported Sunday that two officers and three enlisted men of the Paraguayan First Cavalry Division had been killed in a clash and Paraguayan exile quarters suggested that the authorities had thwarted an attempt to unseat President Gen. Higinio Morinigo.

The Asuncion dispatch said that as the result of the clash Col. Victoriano Benitez Vera had been retired as commander of the First Cavalry Division, which is the main unit in the Paraguayan Army.

According to exiles here, Vera is leader of a group trying to oust President Morinigo.

IT RAINS BREAD, CHEESE IN ENGLAND

ST. BRIAVELS, England, June 10 (Monday)—(AP)—Bread is scarce and cheese is rationed in England, but hundreds had both for the asking Sunday in a 1,000-year-old ceremony at this Gloucestershire hamlet.

Fifty pounds of bread and cheese in small cubes were thrown from a wall to townspeople and visitors. The Whitsunday custom commemorates the right of villagers to take wood from a section of Dean Forest.

Just how the bread and cheese is linked with the wood, no one remembers. W. G. Creswick's family paid for the refreshments. The Food Ministry did not ask for ration coupons.

WALTER McDONALD'S NEGLECT OF DUTY EXPOSED

A great many people are drawing comparisons of the present conduct of the affairs of the Public Service Commission, so much in contrast with the period when the Commission was composed of men of the type of the late Judge George Hillyer, Judge Warner Hill, Judge Spencer Atkinson, Hon. Paul B. Trammell, Hon. Charles Murphey Candler, and Hon. Pope Browne, and many others.

Until some 18 months ago Mr. McDonald had not signed the minutes of the Commission for more than four years. When you consider that such minutes reflect legal questions covering heavy interests, it is hard to believe that such slipshod method could prevail in the affairs of a department of such vital concern to people throughout the State.

The Commission has an Auditing Committee made up of members of the Commission, whose duty it is to audit the expenditures of the money provided by the Legislature for the Commission. The audit of this Committee has not been approved by the Commission for something like three years. This delay is due to the fact that certain expenditures by Mr. McDonald have been challenged. The Commissioner questioning such expenditures was removed from the Auditing Committee by Mr. McDonald.

Some years ago Mr. McDonald required all the railroads and all buses operating in Georgia to furnish him with annual passes, which he used until he was exposed. Ample funds were provided by the Legislature for all legitimate traveling expenses. TOM DURANT, Darien, Georgia, Candidate for Public Service Commissioner.

Chinese Claim Communists Break Truce

NANKING, June 9 — (UP) — Chinese Government spokesmen Sunday charged that Communists violated the Manchurian truce three hours after it became effective last Friday and were massing troops for major assaults in North China.

A Changchun dispatch said Communists attacked four towns, strategically located to isolate Harbin in the event Government forces take over the city.

Government sources in Peiping charged that Communists under Gen. Ting Sheng surprised Government troops at Tehhsien late Friday night and that a battle for the city was still in progress. Tehhsien is 60 miles north of Tsinan, capital of Shantung Province.

The Peiping report said Communists were massing large forces for attacks on cities along the Khsoyang-Pingchuan Railway in Eastern Jehol Province, presumably to cut off Government supplies from North China and Southern Manchuria.

The report said 10,000 Communists were poised for a siege of Lingyuan and that 15,000 were massed on the outskirts of Chaoyang.

Government headquarters at Changchun said Communists attacked simultaneously four Manchurian cities at 3 p. m. Friday—three hours after the 15-day truce became effective.

The main attack apparently was concentrated on Taulaichao, seven miles north of the Sungari River on the Changchun-Harbin Railway, headquarters said.

Mrs.C.J.Haralson Succumbs at 87

Mrs. Lue Ella Haralson, 87, of 1356 Wylie St., N. E., the widow of C. J. Haralson, of Social Circle, died at her home Saturday following an illness of several months.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. today at the chapel of A. C. Hemperly and Sons. Burial will be in the Haralson Cemetery at Social Circle.

Mrs. Haralson, the former Lue Ella Smith, was born in Norcross. Immediately following her marriage she lived in Mount Paran for a number of years and moved to Atlanta 21 years ago. She was a member of the Mount Paran Primitive Baptist Church.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Jennie Stephens; a brother, W. C. Smith, both of Social Circle, and two stepsons, M. R. and C. I. Haralson, both of Rebecca.

had wandered in a daze. He, too, was taken to the hospital.

Bentley, semi-conscious, could not recall much of the affray, he said, beyond the fact that one point during the struggle he asked the Negro: "What do you want?" The Negro replied, "Money." Bentley told him, "I'll give you what I've got." Then the Negro said, "I'm going to kill you!"

Checking in the area, police learned a party had been in progress at the home of Jim Blackwell, 32, Negro. They reported drinking and gambling had been going on. Among those rounded up by police was a Negro named Frank Newton, 26.

He told police he left the party with a Negro named Eugene Fletcher, whose wife, Daisy Lou, 32, was also at the party. Newton said he and Fletcher recalled seeing the parked automobile on their way home.

A cap identified as belonging to Fletcher was found at the scene, police said. He is being sought for questioning. Blackwell, Newton, Daisy Lou Fletcher and a Negro named Cape Morgan, were arrested as material witnesses. All were lodged in the DeKalb County Jail at Decatur.

14 PERCENT MORE FOOD FOR AMERICANS THIS YEAR DESPITE RECORD EXPORTS

WASHINGTON, June 9—(UP)—The Department of Agriculture assured the people Sunday that they will get about 14 percent more food this year than before the war, despite record exports to world famine areas, but they can't be too choosy.

They may have to substitute potatoes and fresh vegetables for bread and other cereals for awhile, and meat will continue scarce, but for the year as a whole, it said, the per capita calorie supply will run about 3,300 a day, 10 percent above any other country except Canada.

It said this level will be achieved in the face of the largest food export effort in U. S. history.

Under present plans the nation will supply 40 percent of the world's exportable wheat this year although it will fall slightly short of its pledge to ship 400,000,000 bushels of grain by June 30. More than 339,000,000 bushels had been shipped through May 31.

Trolley Service For Morningside Is Council Topic

Pros and cons of a proposal to reroute and substitute trackless trolleys for the Morningside bus line will appear at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at a public hearing before members of City Council's Sixth Ward delegation.

The Georgia Power Company, operator of Atlanta's transit system, has proposed a trackless trolley line operating out Peachtree to Houston Street, Courtland and Pine Streets to Angier Avenue, to Boulevard and thence to Cumberland Road, Morningside Drive, Rock Springs and Pelham Roads to Morningside Drive. The trolleys would return over the same route.

Several weeks ago, the proposal was presented to the Morningside Civic League and approved by approximately 100 persons who attended, but subsequently opposition has developed to the erection of trolley wires along certain of the stretches.

When the matter was offered to Council, it was referred to the Sixth Ward delegation for a recommendation since the opposition was centered in that section of Atlanta, and Company officials, and sponsors and opponents are expected to attend the session Wednesday.

Company officers have stressed that the trackless trolleys would improve service on a line which is considerably overcrowded. They contend the larger trolleys would accommodate more riders and would relieve existing congestion and at the same time provide a faster, less noisy and more comfortable service.

Mrs. L. H. Mann, Is Dead at 63

Mrs. Lucien H. Mann, 63, of Jonesboro Road, Forest Park, died at her home yesterday following an illness of several years.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel of Harry G. Poole. Burial will be in Roseland Cemetery.

Mrs. Mann, the former Mary Alma McDonald, of Butts County, had lived in Forest Park for the past 40 years and was the widow of a retired Forest Park farmer who died two years ago. She was a member of the Forest Grove Baptist Church.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. P. H. Thomas, Mrs. A. A. McGiboney, Mrs. J. A. Hamby, and Mrs. C. E. Freeman; a son, Doyle D. Mann; her mother, Mrs. Zodie McDonald; two sisters, Mrs. G. C. Mason and Mrs. Ernest Kitchens, all of Atlanta and vicinity; three brothers, E. F. McDonald, of Gardena, Calif.; A. E. McDonald, of New York, N. Y., and Ernest McDonald, of Locust Grove; nine grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

W. W. Goolsby, 58, Veteran, Is Dead

W. Walter Goolsby, 58, a veteran of World War I, of Jacksonville, Fla., died in Veterans' Hospital 48 Saturday after a long illness.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by West View Peachtree Chapel Funeral Directors.

Mr. Goolsby was a native of Florida and a member of the DAV. He had been in the hospital two weeks prior to his death.

In addition to his wife, Mrs. Nelle Goolsby, he is survived by a step-daughter, Mrs. E. E. Goodwin, of Birmingham, Ala.; two brothers, J. O. Goolsby, of St. Augustine, Fla., and C. A. Goolsby, of Zolfo Springs, Fla.; and four sisters, Mrs. Gracie Harvey, of Gainesville, Fla., Mrs. Henry Douglas, of Avon Park, Fla., Mrs. J. W. Johns, of Boca Grande, Fla., and Mrs. Walter Parnell, of Zolfo Springs, Fla.

Surviving relatives include Fire Chief D. W. Brosnan, Miss Agnes Brosnan, of Albany; Sister Mary DeSales Brosnan, Macon; George Brosnan, Jacksonville.

GIs Should Have Terminal Pay, Say Young Voters

The executive committee of the Young Voters of Georgia has written Georgia Congressmen stating that their group is in favor of the bill to allow enlisted personnel of the armed forces terminal leave pay for accrued leave on the same basis as such pay is allowed commissioned officers.

"Veterans and their friends," the letter, signed by Jim Cherry, Chairman of the Young Voters, reads, "are insistent that legislation be passed to correct this abuse.

"The executive committee submits two statements to justify its position:

"1. The privilege of terminal leave pay as accorded officers is a financial discrimination averaging several hundred dollars per officer, and is on the basis of class rather than merit, and as such, is contrary to economic practices of our competitive economy.

"2. Arbitrary distinctions such as terminal pay only to officers are undemocratic in spirit and detrimental to morale."

Mrs. J. E. Berry Dies in Hospital

Mrs. J. E. Berry, 62, of 800 Lindbergh Dr., N. E., died in a local hospital yesterday following an illness of several years.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Spring Hill. Burial will be in the Sandy Springs Cemetery.

Mrs. Berry was the former Sally Rutherford, of Cobb County. She lived in Atlanta for a number of years and her husband is an Atlanta building contractor. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Rubye Hyde, of Cassima, Fla.; Mrs. Vera Manuel, of Houston, Tex., and Mrs. Edna Holbrook, of Atlanta; four sons, J. C. Berry, of Cincinnatti, Ohio; A. C. Berry, of Dayton, Ohio; B. M. Berry, of Atlanta, and Johnny R. Berry, of St. Louis, Mo.; a sister, Mrs. Lula Davis, of Marietta, and a brother, Horace Rutherford, of Austell.

Mrs. Trotzier Succumbs at 35

Mrs. Mary Lou Trotzier, 35, of 1080 McLynn St., N. E., the wife of Louis Trotzier, died in an Atlanta hospital yesterday following a prolonged illness.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon. The Rev. L. E. Smith will officiate. Burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

Her husband is well known as a speed-boat racer and owner of the Atlanta Outboard Motor Company.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Trotzier is survived by her mother, Mrs. M. L. Hardin, and a sister, Mrs. C. H. Lane, both of Atlanta.

Would Bar Teen Agers Overseas

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON, June 9—(AP)—A plan to permit the induction of 18-year-olds but to prohibit their use overseas has been offered by Rep. Sparkman, Democrat, Alabama, as a compromise to break the Senate-House deadlock over extension of the draft law.

Sparkman, Democratic whip of the House, told reporters he will submit the proposal to Senate-House conferees Monday. The Conference Committee is hunting a solution for differences which are holding up legislation to extend the draft law which expires on June 30.

The Alabaman's plan, if accepted by the 14 Senators and Representatives on the Conference Committee, would represent a yielding by both the Senate and the House from positions in which they previously have been adamant.

The House by overwhelming vote has twice refused to permit the induction of 18 and 19-year-olds under any conditions, limiting the age of future draft liability to the 20-through-29 group. The Senate, by as decisive a vote, has favored continuance of the present draft ages, 18 through 44.

Sparkman's proposal would permit draft boards to continue to induct 18-year-olds, but would prohibit the Army and the Navy from using them as overseas replacements, unless they volunteer, before they are 19.

"I believe the House will go along on this compromise," Sparkman said. "I don't believe the House will accept the Senate plan as it now stands."

At least four of the seven House conferees indicated they would refuse to go along with the Senate proposal to use 18-year-olds for overseas service if necessary, but several of them said they might accept the Sparkman plan as a compromise.

Little difficulty is expected by the conferees in agreeing on a compromise over how long the law should be extended. The House voted to continue it until next Feb. 15, the Senate until May 15.

House conferees indicated a willingness to abandon the House's stand for an induction moratorium until Oct. 15, provided the Senate agrees to leave pay raises out of the draft legislation. The Senate wrote pay boosts for enlisted personnel into the extension law after the House had passed a separate pay-raise bill.

The two branches are in full agreement on limiting the service of inductees to 18 months and on prohibiting the drafting of fathers, regardless of age.

Firemen Battle Blaze 8 Hours in Griffin Fire

Constitution State News Service.

GRIFFIN, June 9—The largest fire in Griffin in over three years, which kept firefighters busy fighting the flames for eight hours, Sunday destroyed a Big Star Super Market and badly damaged an adjoining building, Fire Chief Ellis Simonton said.

All available firefighting equipment was employed, and every member of the Fire Department was called in to battle the blaze. Even a number of volunteers aided firemen who received the call early Sunday morning and were still pouring water on the gutted building late Sunday afternoon.

Chief Simonton said the main reason the fire spread so rapidly was that the fire wall in the Big Star Market gave way allowing the flames to move over to the other building, the F. L. Bartholomew Buick agency and garag

The Bartholomew building was badly damaged although no vehicles were caught in the blaze. Both buildings were of brick foundation, but cause of the fire was undetermined.

Simonton said the fire probably started in the back of the block-long building of the Big Star store and quickly spread to other parts of the building.

The Big Star store is located on Highway 41 and so much equipment was rushed to the scene that traffic had to be rerouted on that main thoroughfare from Atlanta to Macon.

There were no casualties other than minor burns and bruises to several members of the Fire Deparament, Simonton revealed.

"Was I WRONG, back in 1946!"

1. "I often look back to World War II. It doesn't seem like eight years ago, now. Man, did I put in plenty of overtime on my trucking route back in those days! Believe me, the pay was good. I sure was in the money!

2. "But we didn't spend much, then. We always wanted a little farm or a house of our own in the country, so we started saving in a big way. Besides, many of the things we needed were scarce during the war.

3. "So, we salted a lot of our extra money away in War Bonds and we built up our savings account in the bank. We bought some more life insurance that we needed. By the time peace came, we had a good nest egg to fall back on.

4. "Then a few things you couldn't get in wartime started to come back. Some of them cost more than they were worth, but some people just grabbed them up anyhow. But we went easy, at first. Then we caught the fever, too!

5. "Most of our savings were gone before we came to our senses. If we'd waited till things were plentiful again, we could have bought what we needed—and we'd have a good backlog, today! Was I WRONG, back in 1946!"

BUT IT IS STILL 1946. If we use our savings wisely now, we can help to avoid inflationary price increases . . . and at the same time maintain backlogs for the kind of future we all desire. If we spend our money carelessly now, we may look back some day with regret.

During the war, millions of Americans saved to protect their families, to educate their children, to start a business of their own, to own their own home, to retire. Today they are still following the advice of our Government, buying only what they really need until civilian goods are plentiful; buying and holding on to their Government Bonds and life insurance, and maintaining their savings accounts. Are you one of them?

Albert Hardy on the Governor's Race

Ex-Gov. Eugene Talmadge has been threatening to put up a new newspaper in Atlanta, where both the established dailies are against him.

Mr. Talmadge has not said so, but we assume he is also prepared to start additional "Statesmans" in Augusta, Macon, Columbus, Albany and Waycross; in Brunswick, Statesboro, Rockmart, Griffin, Americus, Hawkinsville and a hundred other Georgia communities where the present newspapers are opposing him.

Mr. Talmadge has also been berating the editors of the Atlanta papers, impugning their honesty and questioning their sincerity.

Yet Mr. Talmadge has said not a word against editors like Henry McIntosh, Jack Williams, Isador Gelders, Dave Turner and Roy McGinty, to mention just a few of the hundred-odd who are opposing him just as vigorously—and ofttimes more intelligently—than we.

No man in Georgia, for instance, is more loved and respected than Albert Hardy, of The Gainesville News. Mr. Hardy has been watching and writing about Georgia since the turn of the century. This week, in a characteristically succinct editorial, "Queer Political Race," Mr. Hardy evaluates the present gubernatorial picture.

"Have you ever stopped to think that the present gubernatorial campaign is one of the most peculiar in the annals of Georgia history?" Mr. Hardy begins. "It is queer in that two have-been Governors are running again and both are jumping on the third man in the race, who has never been Governor. They seem to fear him more than they fear each other.

"It appears to The News that Rivers and Talmadge seem to think that the other's record in office is so odoriferous that it will defeat him, hence they both are doing everything in their power to stave off, hog-tie, belittle, and besmirch the character and integrity of Mr. Carmichael.

"They are doing this more or less to put up a smoke screen to hide their records in office. What they did in office is a hush-hush secret. Every time they open their mouths about what they did in office, someone brings out the record book and shows their present claims to be contradictory to the facts.

"Talmadge, for example, was making a speech before the labor unions in Atlanta and stated how he favored unions, yet he was the one to call out the State militia when some textile workers went on strike during one of his terms in the Governor's office. He stated that he was a man in favor of equal rights, yet his record shows where he ran roughshod over business interests.

"Rivers claims he is honest and for law and order, yet he had duly elected officers thrown bodily out of office when they refused to obey his orders, which were in violation of the law. He also granted pardons right and left to criminals which the State spent thousands of dollars trying in courts before conviction.

"If there were nothing else to choose from except the records of the two Governors' terms in office, a majority of the voters in Georgia would vote for anyone besides Rivers or Talmadge.

"Georgia is fortunate in having Jimmie Carmichael to run in opposition to these two. He has had enough experience in the Legislature to know what it is all about, and through his own ability and initiative demonstrates that he is capable of conducting the affairs of Georgia in a creditable manner."

A Proper Zoning Plan

County Commissioners I. Gloer Hailey and Charley Brown are to be commended for their vote in setting up a zoning plan for Fulton County.

It was a necessary plan, long overdue. Fulton County cannot afford to be left at the mercy of small or large speculators who seek to block every improvement by buying up strategically located property and demanding abnormal prices, forcing suits and condemnation proceedings.

Zoning laws are a protection—the only protection in fact—which property owners can have. They are the only laws which permit the County and City to plan for the future growth and development of residential and business sections. They are wholly desirable.

Only three members of the Commission were present. The Constitution feels that it speaks for the great majority of the people of the County in saying they want this protection and do not want it changed when, and if, it should be brought before a full meeting of the Commission. By all means let us keep the zoning plan.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters from its readers. They must be signed, should not exceed 200 words.

Sgt. Brown's Company

Editor Constitution:

The IRTC located here at Fort McClellan, is, without practically any exceptions, the worst organization, in almost all respects, in which I have ever been unfortunate enough to serve. To date, I have over nine years of service in the Army. During that time, I have been in 19 different outfits on 14 different posts, camps and fields. Therefore, I feel that I am somewhat of a connoisseur of what a good organization should be like, and to some extent, how one is run.

Realizing that a complaint is of no avail without facts, I offer the following:

Housing Conditions — If all trainees of this Command lived to be a hundred years old, they will, no doubt, recall their 10 weeks' stay here at Fort McClellan, living in these so-called huts. Evidently, the huts were designed to house from 10 to 12 men each, but here, we have from 18 to 20 men crowded into them. This wouldn't be so bad if we had a roof over our heads, doors to close and windows to raise and lower. Standing inside one of these dark "chicken houses," one can literally see the sky through the top. There are any where from 10 to 20 leaks in all of them. The rain not only leaks through, but in some places, pours like water from a faucet. Last night I heard bunks, all over the area, being moved from one place to another, by men trying to escape the downpour. Of course, some men were not fortunate enough to find a dry spot, for 20 cannot get into one spot with so many holes in the roof. I moved my own bunk twice last night, trying to find a dry spot. This morning all my shoes and clothes were soaked with dirty water.

When men fell out for reveille this morning, I noticed that some were as wet as if they had been outside in the downpour. At least 100 men or more of this organization have asked me: "Can't something be done about this?" Now, I ask you, can't something be done to remedy this situation?

Food — Practically everyone knows that we are on a food conservation program for the starving peoples of Europe and elsewhere, therefore, the GI ration has been officially cut from 3,300 to 3,000 calories. I believe that 99 per cent of us will agree that we should help feed these famished countries, but few of us believe that our shortage of food here is due to that fact alone. For instance, for 240 men we get 206 boxes of cereal (individual sizes). Often times, we don't have enough bread. Most always, we don't get enough meat. There is never any "seconds" for the men, whose appetites are above the average, due to many and varied exercises gotten throughout the day and evening.

In case there is anyone who doubts the above statements, he can verify same by paying this place a visit and asking almost any soldier of the IRTC.

Please do what you can to help us here at Ft. McClellan and we will repay you by honest and faithful service to your country and mine.

JOHN Y. BROWN, 6653743,
1st Sgt., Co. B, 13 Bn., IRTC.
FORT McCLELLAN, Ga.

Editor's Note—The Constitution reporter who visited Fort McClellan did not find conditions, generally, as bad as Sgt. Brown says they are in his particular company. The reporter, trying to make a conservative estimate, said about half of all IRTC huts leaked. The reporter was told by a general that the men were getting between 3,700 and 3,800 calories a day compared to Sgt. Brown's figure of 3,000. The reporter dropped in two IRTC companies at mealtime and both meals were good. The men agreed their meals were satisfactory though one company said they had undergone food shortages until a letter had been printed in The Constitution about it.

Defends McClellan

Editor Constitution: I deplore the fact that The Constitution printed that letter from the Fort McClellan officer who did such bitter complaining. I believe that this matter could have been handled better without publicity.

During the past seven years I have probably spent more time at Fort McClellan than any other civilian. I have had many friends there, both officers and enlisted men. I have been there both professionally, as a photographer for The New York Times, and socially.

Major General John B. Coulter, who was Commander of Infantry Replacement Training Center when that letter was written is a personal friend of mine, as is Brigadier General William E. Brougher, Post Commander. Gen. Coulter was transferred recently to Fort Sam Houston, Texas. I just had a letter from him this morning repeating his invitation for me to come out and visit him, and I hope to do that before long. I have had the run of Fort McClellan for years. I know of no place there where I have not been. I've eaten all over the place. The food I saw was always better and much more abundant than I have been able to buy for my own consumption. You simply cannot buy the good kind of bread they bake out there.

It is my profound opinion that the food at Fort McClellan is better than we here in Anniston can buy locally.

April 7, 1946, we had a tornado in Anniston accompanied by the most widespread hail storm I have ever heard about. We have in Anniston approximately 7,000 homes. Not one of these escaped damage by hail, and we have many a roof in the town that is still just like a sieve because we have been unable to buy roofing.

Fort McClellan caught only a minor storm compared with Anniston, but it did have a lot of hail that was driven hard by the winds. No doubt many roofs there were riddled. I do not know why they have not been repaired.

I have known a lot of young officers who came to Fort McClellan with the idea of remaining in the Army. Most of them hoped to retain the rank they had reached, and when they got the idea that they probably would not be able to do this, they became dissatisfied.

Bellyaching in the Army is too commonplace to deserve much more than passing consideration. I've heard bitter complaint against every high officer in the Army from General Marshall down. Maybe the Army would not agree to one of the solutions mentioned by your reporter—that IRTC be moved from Fort McClellan. As of now, the Army has designated that post as THE IRTC of the nation. (Editor's Note—General Coulter told The Constitution reporter there was also an IRTC at Camp Robinson, Ark.)

The other would probably be the real solution which is that the leaks be stopped.

The only way I see that we are going to be able to help the Army improve its conditions is to give it better support than it is now getting from Congress and a majority of the people of the country.

The future of Fort McClellan has not been established, much to the concern of Anniston people, especially the business men. I feel very keenly about this matter, and am glad to give expression to this feeling.

No Peaceful, Sunny Place To Think

"I wish," he said, "I had a little place in the country with flowers and the sun and a place to think, a place that's peaceful . . ."

God knows we all do.

The world is walking now like a world in a dream. All up and down the roads of the nations of the world there go those who are longing for a place where there are a few flowers and a quiet peacefulness such as all people dream of and want.

There is no one with the answer.

Ministers thunder from their pulpits, saying go back to God. But there is a feeling in the hearts of all that they have never really left God, but rather have always been struggling forward seeking God and the warmth of His sun and the security of His protecting arms. They are not crowding in to hear those who thunder about going back to God or the old ways which are pictured forth as peaceful and calm when we, even we of this generation, know they were not.

Now and then, there will come a man who will be able to put into the hearts of men and women the spirit and the truth of the Man of Nazareth. Such men go with sweetness and strength all their days and the look upon their faces and in their eyes reveals their inner strength.

Him But, mostly they keep Him within the walls of the temples and the churches. He is somewhere above the choir loft or perhaps in the songs or maybe in the hymns or the stillness of the church. And when you go out there is a sense of leaving it all behind, the quietness and the peacefulness.

If you can go to rock-ribbed Palestine and walk the old trails you get a different feeling. Here you feel the presence of someone who was alive; whose feet were dirty and tired walking the dusty trails; who sweated and was covered with grime going down to the hot depths of the Dead Sea and was washed in the cool Jordan. Here He went, His robes smelling of acacia woodsmoke and of the stables which were a part of the houses He visited. Here went a Man who often was worried and tired and discouraged, carrying the great truth about in Him—brother rabbis hating Him for having new ideas, the ruling class afraid of Him because He stirred up the crowds—you get the feeling of the Man and to this day Jerusalem is a nervous, tense city. And while His truth is celebrated in song and prayer and while it sustains millions in hope, it has not found men who would take it and make it a flame for the world to follow.

There are still men who go about saying: "Hate this one and persecute this one, and follow me to triumph." There are still those greedy, evil ones who will set man against man to carry out a political ambition; who will create suspicion and fear for what it will bring.

Nation Everyone feels a little tired. There is the feeling as if something great had come to an end. There is nowhere to turn. It is as if men had put down sure values and turned themselves loose in strange pastures where they did not know the way.

A great war had come to an end and the nation which had spent less of its blood and men than any other power involved was more tired and more divided than any other.

It was like a blind Samson. It groped about, with powerful, aimless hands.

It was like Gulliver, tied, bound with the cords of fear and suspicion, greed and selfishness.

Gulfs were coming between the peoples. Groups were withdrawing, feeling hurt and betrayed.

Millions not in any group or organization watched the currents, feeling a growing rage and frustration; an aimless irritation; a restless impatience with their jobs, their problems, themselves.

Somehow, there was a feeling that when the war ended things would be all right; there would be unity and a surge of good feeling.

The great political struggle raged in Europe and American leaders, misunderstood, tried to compete as the nation demanded toughness and reduced its army; cried out for a strong position but could not agree. We are like a blind wrestler, grappling with foes who can see.

The world was listening . . . waiting.

Nowhere in the whole, vast world was there a little place in the country where there were flowers and peaceful skies—where a man could think.

It has to be done in the clamor of the market-place.

(Editor's Note: Ralph Jones is on vacation.)

WASHINGTON—The third-party agitation now convulsing the American labor leadership makes it necessary for someone to do the old stunt of saying, "the King hasn't any clothes on." The wiseacres assert that the labor groups cannot desert President Truman because their doing so would elect a Republican Congress in 1946, or bring in Bricker in 1948. But the simple truth is that the main source of the current third-party talk is the extreme left wing. And the extreme left wing would like nothing better than the general paralysis which would result from election of a Republican Congress while a Democrat remains in the White House.

The third-party crisis—and it has been a crisis—was precipitated by the President's long-delayed but violent action in the strike emergency. This provided a pretext for those who have long looked toward a third party for other reasons. The CIO labor chieftains, Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray, were forced to exert great powers of persuasion to prevent some of their more excitable followers from plumping for a third party at once. For a day or two, Hillman's ally in the Administration, Postmaster Gen. Robert Hannegan, was gravely alarmed. Overtures were made to Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace to head a third-party movement, but were firmly rejected. For the present, the crisis seems to have blown over.

Communist Strategy Yet the division of forces and the motives animating the various participants in the struggle are still worth study, since a new crisis may break out at any moment. (Another crisis could easily be started, for example, by a repetition, in the management of the threatened shipping strike, of the same bungling that characterized the management of the rail and coal strikes.) And if a nation-wide third-party movement is initiated, it ought to poll enough votes and create enough general confusion to transform the probability of Republican success in the congressional elections into an absolute certainty.

These facts are clearly realized by Hillman, Murray and Wallace, which is why they have steadfastly refused to yield to the temptation of a third party, even though the labor chieftains' enthusiasm for President Truman is about as warm as yesterday's toast. These facts are not clearly realized by a small number of Hillman's and Murray's non-Communist, idealist followers, who rather hanker for the excitement of a third party, and are therefore used as fronts by the Communists.

But the real third-party impulse comes from the small but influential sectors of the labor movement which are held by the Communists and their fellow travelers. They understand the facts of political life just as well as Murray, Hillman and Wallace. But they actively want what Murray and Hillman and Wallace do not want. In short, the situation is reaching the same stage that it did in 1940, when the Communist party cast its vote for Wendell Willkie on the ground that he was less interventionist than Franklin Roosevelt. The Soviet-Nazi pact was then in force, and beating Roosevelt was then the party line.

Foreign Policy From the Communist standpoint, organization of a third party is desirable today for a very simple reason. Where President Truman's Administration has been weak in other departments, it has been strong in foreign policy. Truman and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes are rallying constantly increasing national support for "patience and firmness" toward the Soviet Union. Naturally, the party line is to put a stop to this by all available means. There could be no better means imaginable than to administer a defeat at the polls to the Administration, and at the same time throw one of the co-ordinate branches of the government into the hands of the opposition.

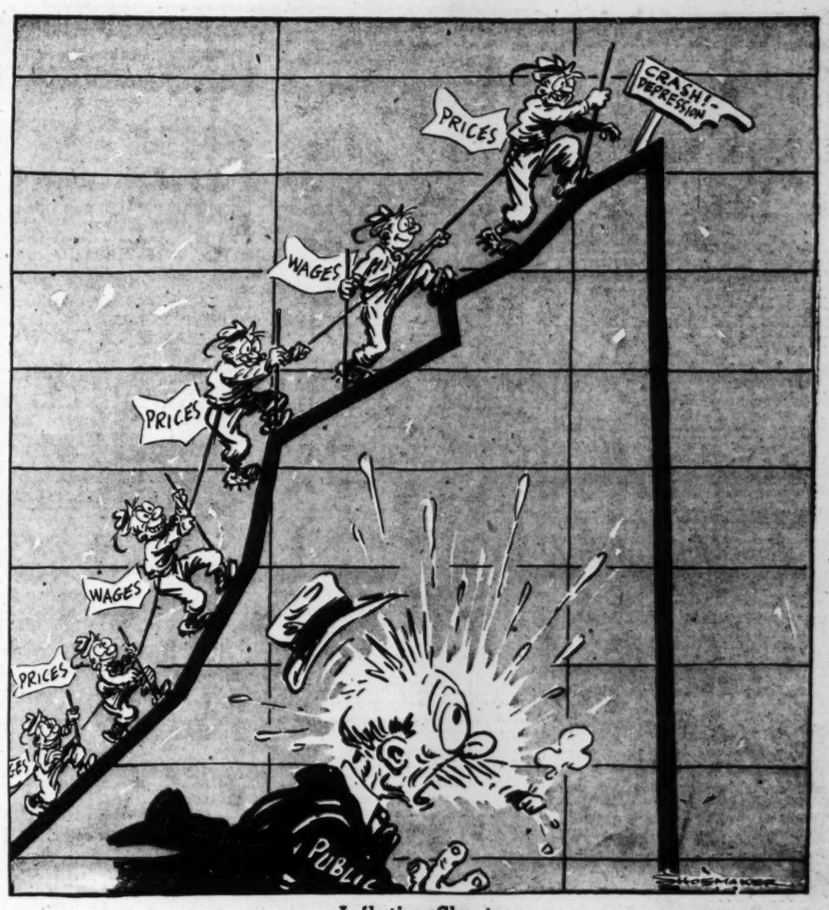

To be sure, the Truman-Byrnes foreign policy is not supported in many non-Communist sectors of the American left wing. Sec. Wallace himself has made his opposition to it most glaringly evident, considering his place in the Cabinet. Hillman has repeatedly attempted to secure modifications. But the first consideration of these men is the welfare of those whom they represent—the labor unions and the American left wing in general. That is not true of the Communists and party liners. Fortunately, most of the non-Communists are beginning to wake up to this.

ALTAR STAIRS — By John Marvin Rast

And looking up to Heaven, he sighed and saith unto him, Ephphatha, that is, Be opened.—Mark, 7:34.

Cannot you hear that sigh of Jesus, when he was confronted by the one who was deaf and who had an impediment in his speech? Why do you suppose the Master felt so hopeless? Surely it was not that He thought He could not bring restoration. Nay, it must have been that He was discouraged by those about Him who suffered with wilful deafness. But be it said to the eternal credit of our Lord, He did not withhold blessing from those in need. Their faith, not that of the multitude, was the measure of His grace.

Open our ears that we may hear, Speak, Savior, in tones that penetrate our doubt and indifference. Let the words of our mouths and the meditation of our hearts be acceptable in Thy sight.

The People Incompetent?

President Taft, who was a fine man but a poor politician, once remarked that our people are not competent to govern themselves. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, in an unguarded moment, made a similar statement — or so the Press reported.

Such remarks do not please us, but a tree must be judged by its fruits. Let us examine the evidence and see whether "We the People," by the things we do or fail to do, show proof of ability to govern ourselves.

Consider first the coal miners' strike.

One man, who rules and speaks for the miners, got into an argument with several men who represent the mine owners or operators, concerning back pay, a welfare fund and certain other benefits for the miners.

The argument was not forced upon them by an "act of God" or by any unavoidable thing like a military invasion. They started it deliberately, and they made no effort to settle it in privacy.

In the beginning it was public entertainment, but very quickly it became a matter of grave concern to every person in America.

The President and other public servants, including members of House and Senate, neglected their other duties to join debate, either as participants or arbiters.

Trains stopped running; freight piled up in yards and depots; electric power failed; machines stopped; factories closed and thousands of people were out of work. Ships were tied up at their docks; trains stopped running in Europe; factories there closed, and more people died of hunger because food could not be distributed.

Here at home the cost was beyond counting. The miners lost hundreds of millions in wages; the owners lost millions in lost production; the lost production and lost wages in other industries made the whole nation poorer—and the hurt will be felt for months to come.

Miners and others who were forced to be idle cashed their bonds and drew out their savings, and their feeling of security gave way to one of helpless unease.

Well, that is the way We the People permit an industrial argument to be settled. Does it indicate ability to manage our own affairs?

On the contrary, every person blessed with ordinary horse sense knows that permitting such a thing is a folly so inexcusable it borders on imbecility.

We are not discussing the right or wrong of the argument. The question is whether We the People have sense enough to govern ourselves.

Some people say: "We pay representatives a generous salary to manage our public affairs. They are the ones at fault. They lacked the intelligence of courage to find a better way."

Well, who chose these public servants? We the people. And how did we do it? When we hire a man to build a house or perform an operation, we don't select him because he calls himself our friend or speaks well of our religion or praises the land of our ancestors.

No, we might as well admit the worst. We can't reform until we are convicted of sin and ready to repent.

LIABILITY

(Sparks Eagle)

Roy Harris will prove a liability to Talmadge rather than an asset. Georgians know the Cracker organization as a ruthless city machine, always trying to break down the county unit system and take over the State in the accepted Crump-Hague manner. When Talmadge talks about repealing primary laws, they will suspect that he is doing so to accommodate his Cracker masters, and they will turn to Carmichael as the man to protect both good government and the county unit system.

Dairy Shortage Udderly Unexplainable

The price of milk, butter and cheese has gone up again.

Butter? Butter. for the edification of the younger generation, was a prewar oleomargarine substitute.

That was back in the days when this was a land of milk and honey instead of dairy shortages and saccharine.

Time was when you could walk into any grocery and buy a pound of butter without references or an appointment.

Nowadays, you have to leave three dollars in a hollow stump by the dark of the moon and the next day an armored car will deliver half a stick.

The dairy shortage is hard to explain. Bossy is one of the nation's few production workers still putting in a seven-day week.

Yet milk, butter and cheese continue to rise. Who's in the clover . . . the cows or their owners?

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Vinson Should Prove Able Chief Justice

WASHINGTON—President Truman's appointment of Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson as chief of the Supreme Court was probably as happy a selection as could be made under the circumstances.

The only criticism that has been raised in any quarter against the appointment is on the score that a Republican was not named.

This is a complaint that will impress Republicans, and many others, for that matter, as entirely legitimate in view of the fact that Vinson's appointment gives the Democrats a lopsided ratio of eight-to-one on the Court.

Long established custom has dictated that a more even balance be struck in the division of the Court, as between the two major parties.

After the death of the late Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone every indication was given by President Truman of a desire to name a Republican to the vacancy. He considered two courses. Either a Republican would be selected as Chief Justice or one of the present Democratic Associate Justices would be elevated to the Chief Justiceship, thus opening the way for another vacancy to be filled by a member of the minority party.

Jackson Considered Mr. Truman first had in mind appointing Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson Chief Justice. But Mr. Hughes persuaded him it would be wiser to seek someone on the outside who was not identified with the schism that has developed within the Court in recent years.

Thereafter the President considered a host of names. He probably would have preferred to appoint a Republican.

When the right man could not be found he finally got back to Secretary Vinson, whose name had figured in the early speculation over the vacancy.

Because of his temperament and his judicial background as a former member of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Vinson is looked upon as an ideal choice.

He has a reputation as a harmonizer that is equaled by few officials who have occupied the Washington stage in recent years. It was this quality that is thought to have recommended him to the President primarily.

With the high tribunal torn as it is by dissension it was necessary for the President to find a Chief Justice who seemed capable of welding the factions together. Most every one agrees that Mr. Vinson possesses these qualities in a notable degree.

During the twenty years and more in which he has been associated with the official life of Washington he developed a reputation as a warm and kindly man, with a gift of friendship that is rare. No one has exceeded him in popularity.

Compromiser This is a quality, plus his ability to compromise differences between individuals, that will serve him in good stead in his exalted new position. Politically and philosophically, the retiring Secretary of the Treasury occupies a position which has been aptly described as slightly right of center. That is to say, he has been identified more with the conservative than the liberal side, though no one could ever accuse him of being anything suggestive of a tory.

During the New Deal period of the Roosevelt Administration he supported many of the major issues of the day, yet never could be catalogued as an outright New Dealer.

While a member of the United States Appellate Court in the District of Columbia, on which he served for some five years, he demonstrated beyond question that he is a jurist of real capacity. He has a temperament well suited to the post to which he has been elevated.

Judge Vinson, as he is affectionately known to his friends, will not give to the high tribunal the austerity that was associated with Chief Justice Hughes. But he will bring a kindliness and a human touch that will be new to the history of the Court.

The chief surprise in his appointment is that President Truman could consent to lose his services in the Cabinet.

"Some of the biggest air shows are being dumped by sponsors and more than ten million dollars of time and talent will be lost."—News item.

The outlook is dismal, we're plunged in abyssmal dejection and wallow in deepest despair
Since Crosby and Benny and Allen and Kenny and other old friends may be gone from the air
We liked them immensely and waited quite tensely to hear the announcers in speeches they made.
On soup, tea and chowder and asthma-proof powder and coffee that's grown in the tropical shade.

But oh, this is only a part of the lonely and bitter regret that will ruin our lives.
No sweet hour of morning will bring us a warning of what is in prospect for "John's other wives,"
No wife will be stopping her dusting or mopping to listen to stories of horrors and fears,
Of tender hearts throbbing, of wailing and sobbing and shedding a lot of enjoyable tears.

And poor Orphan Annie who sits on her curbstone or looks for some desolate place she can hide,
Will no longer thrill us (but it wouldn't kill us if we heard some gangster had "took her to ride")
Perhaps it is best we are given a rest from unending stories of heartache and crime
But millions of dear weeping women we fear must find new excuses for wasting their time.

HAROLD MARTIN

A Question And a Poem

Sometimes we get letters we don't know what to do with. This was one, for it asked for aid I did not know how to give. All I knew was that as I read it, a poem by Paraic Colum started running through my head. I read her letter and then I went to find a book with Colum's poem in it. It was called "An Old Woman of the Roads." It began:

"Oh, to have a little house!
To own the hearth and stool and all!
The heaped-up sods upon the fire,
The pile of turf against the wall!"

Her letter started: "I am a widow 45 years old. I have raised five children and my youngest is now 12. I was raised on a farm, but I have been living in a small apartment because I had to do public work to support my family. Now I want to go back . . ."

Colum wrote:

"To have a clock with weights and chains
And pendulum swinging up and down!
A dresser filled with shining delph,
Speckled and white and blue and brown!"

She said:

"What I would like so much would be to have a three-room apartment downstairs, on a farm or in a suburb, but I would like best to be on a farm . . ."

The poet said:

"I could be busy all the day,
Clearing and sweeping hearth and floor,
And fixing on their shelf again
My white and blue and speckled store!"

She had written:

"I want only a small place, but one where I could work with flowers and have a garden and some chickens . . ."

The poet had said:

"I could be quiet there at night
Beside the fire and by myself,
Sure of a bed and loath to leave
The ticking clock and the shining delph.

She said: "I love to live quietly, and it may be that I am more old-fashioned than most people like to have around. But I love to sew and crochet and piece quilts—do all those things that go into making a home. Living in a small apartment and working out was a'l right during the war, for we all had to help as much as we could (I worked at Bell Bomber), but now that it is over I want so much to find a place that I can make into a home like the home I knew when I lived on a farm."

The poet wrote:

"Oh! But I'm weary of mist and dark
And roads where there's never a house nor bush,
And tired I am of bog and road
And the crying wind and the lonesome hush!"

And she had said:

"I have tried every way I knew to find a place, but so far I have had no luck. But I shall keep trying, for I love home and all it stands for, and believe some day there will be a place for me. Is there any way you can help?"

And Colum had ended his poem:

"And I am praying to God on high,
And I am praying Him night and day,
For a little house—a house of my own—
Out of the wind and the rain's way."

She didn't sign her name, and even if I knew how to help her I couldn't reach her, for I don't know where she lives. But I hope that some day she does find the place she wants where she can "make a home and all that home stands for." Her letter wasn't poetry. It was simple and matter-of-fact. But deep beneath it was all the yearning for a place of her own that Colum expressed in his poem about the old Irish woman of the roads, who, like her, only wanted "a little house."

WESTBROOK PEGLER

This One Is Long Overdue

James Montgomery Flagg missed the point in a publicity story out of Hollywood recently wherein he fearlessly denounced the bobby-sox cult of young American girls on the mere ground that they are untidy and unappetizing. Worse than that, these hysterical little brats are so many and so indecent in their public exhibitions of an emotion that seems to be sexual, that they call to mind no previous example of adolescent fanaticism. For a time, at least, they were associated with the career of Frank Sinatra whom they pursued even to the extent of picketing hotels where he sang and resided and restaurants where he dined.

This wasn't the innocent, goggle-eyed, restrained longing of the bon-bon set of 40 years ago when the matinee idol was worshipped from afar, nor the curious rapture of the Gerry flappers who idolized Geraldine Farrar in the latter years of her career. There was something distinctly nasty about their bearing and Sinatra, himself, seemed disgusted and angry one evening when he had wrestled his way through a pack of them to enter a restaurant and found that, in the scuffle, they had wrenched a button off his jacket and ripped a pocket.

I HAD thought, up to then, that this was a claque, artificially cultivated by his press agents, for there had been two similar cults of personal devotees identified with a trumpeter and a clarinetist on Broadway in the last 10 years and Mike Jacobs, the prize-fight promoter, had regaled me with stories of his early career when he salted audiences with hired enthusiasts to set off applause and save bad shows from the fate they well deserved.

But, if that had been the case, the exploit had gotten out of control for, on this night they scuffled not merely to touch the hem of his garments but to tear them off and, from the box-office point of view, they weren't worth a dollar a hundred. How they happened to know where he was dining and at what time so as to be on hand for their demonstration I have no idea and being very naive, didn't think to ask.

Flagg found the bobby-soxer offensive for good enough reasons, being her naked, meaty legs, her soiled male undershirt and general sloppiness, but perhaps, at his age, he turns in early and has never had occasion to wonder how children in the throes of some strange hysteria could remain out long after midnight in packs like coyotes, hanging around the Waldorf through some irresistible attraction, sneaking into the lobbies and upstairs unknown to the public and brazenly trying to crash the elevators. What did they want, anyway, and did they know themselves?

ILL-FAVORED, ill-mannered, unrestrained by modesty or pride and seemingly strangers to one another but all victims of the same influence, they certainly were no compliment to any hero of their unsightly disturbance and should have been slapped and put to bed. On one occasion, the newspapers and police estimated that more than 20,000 of them turned out to block traffic and moan and whine in a demonstration vaguely disturbing and beyond understanding. That sort of thing is not the conduct of innocent young girlhood and yet it had to be assumed that each of these children had some sort of home and most of them parents who either didn't realize how troubled they were or hadn't the decency, themselves, to keep them off the streets and under control.

All this swooning and squawking could not have been entirely the work of any promoter intent on building an ephemeral cult for a crooner whose influence on feminine emotions in time became a matter of serious discussion by psychologists and advertising men, who regard themselves as experts in mass-behavior. Benny Goodman's following had been jitterbugs and it was understandable that they should break into the wild antics of their dance to the dreadful squeals of his art. The Scots and patches of morose continentals in Germany and the Balkans react similarly to the anguish of the pipes and, after all, jitterbugging was but a revival or adaptation of such convulsions, but here there was no music to explain the phenomenon, for Sinatra was not a street singer and revealed himself sparingly. He couldn't brush them off.

OF LATE, I observe that Sinatra had adopted another approach to youth, preaching against prejudice and the use of such words as Wop, Dago and Spick. That is nice of him, to be sure although he seems to exaggerate the significance of such terms and thus to accentuate rather than abate awareness of the differences between blood-strains.

However, he serves youth and his country nicely if, by this adoption of a new character, he is able to rebuke and disperse the bobby-sox cult and rid the streets at night of a horde of wayward girls.

GALLUP POLL

Russian Imperialism Feared

By GEORGE GALLUP,
Director American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J.—In the opinion of the average American, Russia is out to do far more than strengthen her defenses and secure her borders against attack.

Only three persons out of 10 find that a satisfactory explanation for Russia's course in international affairs.

A clear majority are convinced that Soviet intentions are imperialistic, that Russia is trying to build herself up to be the ruling power of the world.

The Institute put this question to a cross-section of voters from coast to coast.

"As you hear and read about Russia these days, do you believe Russia is trying to build herself up to be the ruling power of the world, or is Russia just building up protection against being attacked in another war?"

The vote:

Ruling power	58%
Protection	29
No opinion	13

This widespread belief in Russian imperialism has persisted for some months. In March when voters were asked whether they thought any nation was trying to dominate or run the world, the majority answered in the affirmative and the largest number named Russia as the nation they had in mind.

A BREAKDOWN of replies on the basis of occupations finds the manual worker and the farmer revealing the great proportion of distrust of Russia's aims.

	Ruling Power	Protection	No Opin.
Prof. & Business groups	52%	36%	12%
White collar	55	33	12
Farmers	59	29	12
Manual workers	60	26	14

THE AVERAGE American is against appeasing Russia in what it supposes to be her design for expansion of power. When the country was polled in March on the question of what the United States should do if Russia continues her present course in world affairs, the weight of opinion was heavily on the side of being firm, of insisting that Russia live up to her agreements, and of offering her no appeasement.

BUGS BAER SAYS:

I remember Leslie Carter in a show about Maryland when she swung on the clapper of a big bell yelling, "Curfew shall not ring tonight." Her red hair swung out like hall carpet on the line while she whooped it up. She made more noise than the bell could if she hadn't bothered about it in the first place. Seems to me they are doing about the same in the United Nations. Every delegate is swinging on the clapper of a big bell and howling his own peculiar brand of one-line limerick they call a shibboleth. It's the old Tower of Babble again with better acoustics. And when the history of this conference is again written in vanishing cream on a slate roof, don't forget I was the guy who walked out on Gromyko in the Bronx.

Victor was the absolute Monarch who invented the high cavalry hat for short Kings. It actually made him taller on hossback.

His other accomplishments rate him with Charles II.. Whose life averages prove he never said a foolish thing and never did a wise one.

We understand they will tack rockers on the throne to lull Emmanuel's grandson into another affable dynasty.

Looks as if the Maharajas, the Nabors and the Potentates weren't so razor-edged about Indian independence. The lads had a sweeter racket than shooting in the zoo.

Once the English army checks loose from Bombay there will be many a sirloin sliced of the sacred cows. The Gikwar of Ooksboob is already looking for high ground. He had a better racket than the guy at the show window in a two-hoss race.

Hyderabad, Mysore and the other feudal states go into the chopper. The Prince whose salary was his weight in gold will now settle for a box of wet matches.

There is a black market in white elephants. The Swarook of Javahava is asking for bids on 1,100 wives. Any reasonable offer will be astonishing.

HAROLD L. ICKES

The Technique Of John L.

It is not at all strange that John L. Lewis is willing to throw generous shovels-full of coal into the locomotive that is pulling the inflation train out of the station. A man with his social philosophy and political affiliations feels perfectly at home with the National Association of Manufacturers in its campaign for the removal of all price controls.

I want to discuss the political and social implications of the inflationary contract cheerfully entered into by the Government and Mr. Lewis. This will put John L. Lewis a long step along the road of his ambition to become the dominant union leader in the United States. Other workers less benignly dealt with by the Government will wonder why they are little orphans in the storm while the usually saturnine John L. Lewis, broadly grinning, receives a cordial handshake from President Truman who also wears a happy smile.

At the same time, others may ask why it took so long to settle the coal strike. President Truman knew early in February that there would be a strike on April 1. Yet no move was made. The terms finally dictated by John L. Lewis could have been gratefully accepted up to 128 days earlier than they were with a resulting tremendous saving, not only in dollars, but in nervous wear and tear. Apparently the Administration preferred to listen to George E. Allen's stale jocularities while the coal in the bin got lower and lower.

INSTEAD of moving against Lewis, the Administration obligingly took over the mines which the President had been strongly advised not to do. This made no difference to the miners. They remained obstinately on strike.

As a matter of fact, it is significant that in Western Pennsylvania where the miners' union is the strongest, and therefore the most amenable to Lewis' control, every mine remained closed during Mr. Lewis' gracious "truce" of 15 days. The next step naturally followed. John L. Lewis had doubtlessly shrewdly calculated that the Government, as possessor of the mines, could not resist the temptation to negotiate a new contract. From this point on to the humiliating end, John L. Lewis was in full command of the situation.

In my column of Friday, May 24, I undertook to enumerate in advance what the new contract with the Government would grant to Mr. Lewis, and my predictions turned out to be almost exactly accurate. As I predicted, the Government was formulating a sub rosa agreement with Lewis. As a matter of fact, it was proceeding according to it even at the moment that President Truman delivered his hysterical speech before Congress, simultaneously with his humiliation and cavalier treatment of the railroad workers' brotherhoods.

With the President and the Congress screaming for the heads of those who strike against the Government, people marveled at the composure of John L. Lewis whose mine workers were then engaged in striking against the Government. There was no need for Lewis to be other than calm. He already had in his pocket an agreement with the Government.

IN WRITING industrial history in Washington during the last several weeks, John L. Lewis has also been pushing his quill across the pages of the political book.

Except for a temporary sojourn in the New Deal camp, Mr. Lewis has always been a conservative Republican. He tried to throw the vote of the miners to Wendell Willkie in 1940. However, his ego was badly dented when the miners voted overwhelmingly for Roosevelt as usual. Then in 1944 he undertook to do surreptitiously what he had attempted to do boastfully four years earlier. He whispered into ears that could be trusted that Dewey was the man. My guess is that he might not have such a painful and unprofitable time of it trying to line up the miners' votes against Mr. Truman as he did against Roosevelt. By 1948, in addition to the United Mine Workers, he will be in virtual, if not in titular, control of the AFL.

Now that "Little Orphan Annie" "collective bargaining" has been sent to a home for foundlings, it is to be expected that other labor leaders will find it difficult to restrain their desire to father other children outside of the bonds of union-labor matrimony. There are many who would imitate Mr. Lewis' successful technique.

CHANNING COPE

Let's Make Georgia A Place of Beauty

The Judge Davises were nice enough to take us to the Avondale Garden Club's meeting last Friday night and we are greatly indebted to them for the experience. And to the Sam Joneses, at whose home we met. It was an experience we shall not soon forget. There, we saw the living evidence of what can be done to a piece of land when one has the interest, the energy and the vision. The Jones place is beautiful. Moreover, it is practicable. There are fruits, flowers, berries, grapes and vegetables, all in abundance, and arranged tastily about the small acreage in such fashion as to provide harmony and beauty, as well as utility.

It is easy enough to move in on a place which has been protected from erosion and kept productive, and to develop such place into a thing of beauty and utility. But to start from taw, and fill the gullies, and otherwise stop the erosion and, following this with effective land-building efforts, and finally to add the refinements which bring out the true beauty of the place, is something else, again.

"Hold the land; build the land; and then refine it," is the prescription for success, but it is likewise a difficult prescription to fill. This matter of holding the soil in its place is quite an undertaking in itself. Out in the wide open spaces, one can make use of the hardy and aggressive kudzu vine or the deep-rooted sericea lespedeza, but in holding the soil in one's yard where the area is limited, the problem is more complex. Soil control, building and refinement must go hand in hand. Trees and plants must combine soil-holding qualities with beauty and utility. The plum tree must hold the soil, in addition to providing the plum.

The older Atlanta residents will remember the farmlands which now make up the town known as Avondale. They were red, and galled, and gullied, as is the present case with so much of our farmlands. There were few, if any, trees—and very little grass. Trees and grasses were not welcome on the farm in those days. But the people who moved into the new homes were mostly city people and they were not concerned with the rules currently governing the operations of farms.

Today, Avondale is a beautiful city.

What Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jones have done, more of us can and should do on the farms. Having wrapped the soil up in some protective garment so that it stays in place, we can then refine the landscape, planting a tree or a shrub here and there, or a field of flowers. In the low spots, we can dam up the waters and put them to use, perhaps for irrigation. (That Jones vegetable garden, under irrigation, is a thing of great attraction.) If we ever get the idea entrenched in our minds that farming can be attractive as well as productive, we will transform old Georgia into a place of living beauty. She provides the setting; the materials; we have the examples. "The fault, dear Brutus, lies not in our stars, but in ourselves."

Opportunity and Responsibility are Two sides of the Same Coin

THE OPPORTUNITY—To live in a land of free people where the standard of living excels that of any other country in the world.

THE RESPONSIBILITY—To understand that, in this atomic age, starving people in other lands are our near neighbors. If given the necessities of life, they will be a potent factor in favor of the universal peace for which we all pray. The millions of destitute men, women and children in Asia, in Africa and in Europe need to be saved from starvation, regardless of race, color, creed or nationality.

If we share this responsibility, the burden is not heavy. We, in all our abundance, are only asked to:

1 Share Wheat and Fat Products. Go light on all foods that take wheat, fats and oils. Conserve bread, macaroni, cakes, cookies, pastries and deep-fried foods. Use drippings for pan-frying. Conserve salad oil—use boiled dressings instead.

2 Buy and Serve More Plentiful Foods. Balance diets with the more plentiful foods such as potatoes, fruits and vegetables, eggs, fresh poultry and fish.

3 Waste No Food. Dress up today's leftovers for tomorrow. Make every crust count, as melba toast, crumb-toppings, bread puddings and stuffings. Take no more than you can eat. Clean your plate. Turn in every drop of unusable fat to the fat salvage program.

In addition, you can help by keeping your Victory Garden producing, and by contributing to your local emergency food collections.

'You Name It---We'll Do It,' Is the Business Offer of 'The Do-Its, Inc.'

Three Atlanta Girls Rendering Unique Services

By PRESS HUDDLESTON

Featuring willingness, competent and honest service, here's an Atlanta firm that has proven its place of worthiness to all who have asked its help. To busy people, these young ladies who make up the unique firm of "The Do-Its, Inc.," are helpers—lifesavers—for many. They will shop for you, address wedding and party invitations, birth announcements and bereavement cards, or they will type envelopes for business announcements. They also arrange details for parties or weddings, secure flowers, etc.

But that is not all. Bachelors are particularly grateful to the Do-Its, for they offer mending service, such as turning shirt collars and cuffs, patching, darning and sewing on buttons. The "poor working girl" can now look upon a proposal with more appreciation and with a greater sincerity and pleasureable married life, with a bachelor already trained and taught as to where he can have much of his mending and sewing already taken care of. And as for the ladies, the Do-Its will make button holes, hem dresses, put in zippers, and any other little thing a busy business girl doesn't have the time or knowledge to do.

So well established have the Do-Its become—so gratifying has been its reception—that it has had to enlarge both its scope of work and location and take on an additional partner in the concern. Miss Eleanor Plaxico, a young lady that has formerly been connected with the Nationwide Employment Service—a young lady with many friends and acquaintances in the City—has joined Miss Mary Palmer, President, and Mrs. Evelyn Haskins, Vice President, and is now actively engaged in other lines with the two ladies who originally formed the Do-Its, besides holding down the job as Secretary-Treasurer of the concern.

Part-time stenographic help and monthly bookkeeping services for small concerns are available.

The Do-Its, Inc., believe they can be of especial service to the out-of-town folks. They can act as their agents for all their business and personal needs in Atlanta. Shopping is a specialty with them and the charge is extremely reasonable. The "out-of-towners" can rest assured of reservations for hotel accommodations, dancing and dining, luncheon arrangements, trips by train or plane. Tickets to entertainments can be secured by them, such as concerts, football games, baseball games, etc.

The Do-Its Digest is a new weekly publication of the corporation, featuring shopping news, places of interest in Atlanta, current news, and in general it will advertise the City of Atlanta. Tourists, housewives, newcomers and business people will all be interested in this publication and will find it to be quite informative.

What are your needs? The Do-Its stand ready to help you in any way they can. Call them at JA. 2171, or drop into their office at 44½ Marietta St., Room 332, and discuss your needs with them.

All the services mentioned are at reasonable rates—quite within the financial means of the ordinary income.

LET "THE DO-ITS" DO IT—Above is shown three of Atlanta's young business women who are operating a unique and helpful business for scores of people. Call them, JA. 2171, and see how promptly and well they can and will perform a needed service for you. Left to right, Evelyn Haskins, Vice President; Mary Palmer, President; Eleanor Plaxico, SecretaryTreasurer. They are now located at 44½ Marietta Street, third floor.

Nine prominent Atlanta doctors have recently purchased water purification equipment from us.

There must be a reason.

Remember this—a bacteriological test of your water supply represents the condition only at the time the sample was taken. Chlorination, and purification is mighty cheap health insurance. Chlorinators, filters, softeners, or purifiers are just as important as any other household appliance and comparable in price.

We have three purchase plans:

1. CASH.
2. F. H. A. PLAN, UP TO 36 MONTHS TO PAY.
3. A NEW 5-YEAR RENTAL SERVICE AND TITLE PLAN.

Under this third plan we will install complete equipment and service it for 5 years, including all chemicals required, and at end of 5th year, we give you title to the equipment without further cost.

We make this offer to the first hundred applicants only. Equipment consists of alkalinity control, chlorinator, purification filter, iron removal, guaranteed to deliver crystal clear, soft, healthful water that will stand most rigid examinations.

We will have only 100 units available under this plan.

If You Want Good Hearing Buy a Maico Atomeer

If you are hard of hearing—eagerly desirous of good hearing—wouldn't it make you happy to know you can get a hearing aid—one that could be completely concealed behind a pocket handkerchief—a hearing aid declared to be the world's smallest and lightest single unit hearing instrument?

Well, that's what is claimed for the Maico Atomeer, and you can get literature about hearing and hearing instruments—have this Atomeer demonstrated to you—by calling or writing to Maico Hearing Service, 225 Peachtree Arcade, Atlanta.

This concern is owned and operated by W. H. McClain, Jr., and J. R. Hunt, two men of practical knowledge in handling hearing aids.

Maico Atomeer is declared to be a sensational development which has startled the hearing aid industry, and is believed to be something apart from a mere apparatus. It is no larger than a spectacle case, has a 5½-ounce transmitter, with full power 30-volt battery. There is no extra battery pack, no battery cord or garments. It is most powerful in its ability to render hearing, and its beauty and style is made up from plastic inlaid with ebony black.

Write or call the Maico Hearing Service, in the Peachtree Arcade, if you wish to know more about this sensational hearing aid.

NEW OR REMODELED FURS—That's what the ladies of Atlanta can find at Ruben's Fur Shop in the Grand Theater Building. It has a stock of new, fashionable furs, or they can remodel your coat. Above, Mr. Ruben is displaying some of his furs to a lady patron.

Ruben's Fur Shop, Grand Theater, Offering Furs in Height of Fashion

Ruben's Fur Shop, on the second floor of the Grand Theatre building has enlarged and remodeled its suite of rooms, making more convenience for its patrons and giving better accommodations for new customers who need repair, remodeling and storage.

Mr. Ruben has just returned from the style shows in New York and has brought back a complete line of new furs which are the height of fashion and of the finest qualities.

"Our furs are reasonably marked and we assure great savings in any type of coat or neckpiece that any lady may desire to buy," says Mr. Ruben.

The fur shop especially invites the ladies of Atlanta to visit its new show room and inspect its beautiful line of fine furs.

Here are some of the appealing features to Ruben's Fur Shop:

Remodeling and repairing of furs is done by experts and they guarantee the finest workmanship that can be obtained in the City of Atlanta.

Mr. Ruben suggests to the ladies of Atlanta that it is wise, practical and thrifty to bring their furs to his shop because when they do, they receive the full benefit of his expert knowledge. It means your furs receive the handling of skilled furriers.

Mr. Ruben is well known in Atlanta for his skill and craftsmanship, and has given, and will continue to give, his own personal attention to all his customers.

Convenient terms can be arranged to accommodate any and all persons.

Mr. Ruben is joined in the management of his fur shop by his son, Hy Ruben, who returned a few months ago to Atlanta after a considerable service to Uncle Sam in the war service.

Bed Spread Factory Opens at Louisville

LOUISVILLE, June 9—A bedspread factory is a new industry to be added to Louisville's growing list of enterprises.

The initial setup is employing only 12 persons, but as conditions gradually improve for securing the necessary equipment, the plant will be enlarged and several times this many persons will be given jobs, the operator, Mrs. W. L. Maples, states.

This New Jeep Is Stronger Vehicle Than Army Type

By PRESS HUDDLESTON

One of the first postwar Jeeps offered to the public—and one that is creating considerable interest and bringing many inquiries to the Moore-Briscoe Motor Company, Georgia distributors, is the Civilian Jeep.

The Civilian Jeep is an improved and much stronger vehicle than the Army Jeep. It has proved—and is continuing to prove—its value in all types of farm work. Being the first of postwar vehicles offered to the public, there is accumulating a large demand for it. However, due to labor difficulties and material shortage, only a limited quantity has been received here by the state distributors, but production has steadily increased from month to month, until now reasonable early deliveries can be made.

The Moore-Briscoe Motor Company, located now temporarily at 346 Courtland St., N. E., is having erected for itself a larger and much more convenient quarters at the corner of Spring and Fourth Sts., N. W., where it expects to move before long. The company is a partnership between Wiley L. Moore, prominent businessman, and Jack L. Briscoe, widely known automobile man of many years' experience. The company already has approximately 80 dealers throughout the state.

The company is well equipped to do all types of service, and has a complete supply of genuine Willys parts. In offering the Civilian Jeep, the company calls attention to the various types of farm work one of these extra-strong vehicles will do.

Actually, when you get a Civilian Jeep, you get the services of four machines: a tractor, a truck, a mobile power plant and a highly maneuverable and economical runabout.

The unmatched versatility of the military Jeep was proved on the battlefields of war. It has been redesigned to go to work at hundreds of civilian jobs where it can save time, hard work and money.

CIVILIAN JEEP HEARTILY ACCLAIMED—Above is part of a crowd of 1,000 enthusiastic farmers and businessmen at a demonstration of the wonders of the Civilian Jeep held recently on a farm near Atlanta.

The destiny of the Civilian Jeep is to match in civilian life its world-wide military reputation.

As the best-loved piece of equipment in the hands of the fighting men, the Jeep, redesigned by Willys, now makes its bow to you, to all America, to all the world . . . and asks for work to do.

Among the many scores of things the Civilian Jeep can do for you is operating a combine on oats and other grain and seed crops, operating a grain binder, threshing, baling, pick-up and stationary; elevating grain to bin, shelling corn, grinding with hammer mill, cultivating corn and other row crops, planting corn and other row crops, plowing, discing, dragging, operating a rotary hoe, operating a grain drill, hauling grain and livestock, mowing hay, raking hay, operating wagon with hay loader, operating a post-hole augur, operating a manure spreader, sawing wood, operating a paint sprayer, spraying orchards, etc.

Shatterly & Sons Have Parts, Repairs, For Lawn Mowers

Does your lawn mower need some parts or repairs? Lawn mowers have been mighty scarce during the past few months, and may continue scarce for some time, so it will pay you to put your old power mower or hand mower in shape, so you can continue to use it for awhile longer. To do that you should take it to Shatterly & Sons, 599 Lee Street, S. W. Suppose you call this concern, Raymond 3390, and talk with them about their parts and service on both power and hand mowers.

Shatterly & Sons also have small gas motors for sale, as well as motor scooters. These are very popular with the boys and girls, and are quite useful sometimes to the grown-ups.

Rubber tires, tubes and wheels for wheelbarrows are also a part of the stock carried by this well-known West End concern.

That boy and girl of yours have been ding-donging at you long enough for a bicycle. Visit Shatterly & Sons and talk with them about the purchase of a bicycle. Or if the family has an old wheel that needs service, take it to this concern. They give service on bicycles.

Management Society Charter Granted Here

A charter for the purpose of organizing an Atlanta chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management has been granted by the national organization to a local organizing committee, headed by R. G. Taber, President of the Atlanta Gas Light Company.

Other members of the committee include Joseph E. Birnie, President of the Bank of Georgia, and Professors William N. Cox, Jr., and Frank F. Groseclose, of Georgia Tech.

Professor Groseclose, Secretary of the Committee, announced that an organizational meeting of the Atlanta group will be held June 17 at a place to be selected later. To date more than 20 engineers and executives have applied for charter membership in the new chapter.

Death Spares Driver As Car Takes Roll

Richard D. Eason, 26, of Jonesboro, miraculously escaped death yesterday when his car left a dirt road and overturned several times, between Fayetteville and McDonough. He was treated at Grady Hospital for lacerations of his left arm, face and head.

State Troopers R. B. Sykes and E. W. Tillis said witnesses told them Eason was driving at high speed when the accident occurred. A drunken driving charge was booked against Eason, according to the Troopers.

SIAM

ish, Ananda was often described as a reluctant monarch who found his greatest pleasure in playing his saxophone and driving his American jeep about the Palace grounds.

Only a month ago King Ananda signed a new constitution for his country, which provided for a Senate and a House of Representatives both elected by the people. Of June 1 he opened the first wholly elected Siamese Parliament.

Ananda was proclaimed King March 2, 1935, under a regency, upon the abdication of his uncle, King Prajadhipok, but he spent little time in his own land. Born in Germany Sept. 20, 1925, he had been taken to Siam at the age of two. He studied there as a child and went to Switzerland in 1933. He was educated in Lausanne, and most of his last 12 years were spent in Switzerland, except for a brief visit home in 1938. Prajadhipok died in 1941.

Ananda's personal life in Siam was confined largely within the palace walls. He was permitted none of the informal social expeditions which popularized monarchs in the Western World.

Ananda's mother, an attractive, youthful-looking woman in her forties, was said to have exerted a strong influence upon the young ruler of 18,000,000 subjects.

The ancient absolute monarchy of Siam, which endured from 1350 to 1932, was overthrown in a bloodless revolution three years before Ananda ascended the throne, but the Siamese revered him with the same extreme venerations they always had accorded their rulers.

Last Friday the government announced the King and his royal party would leave on Thursday, June 13, by plane for the United States in an Air Transport Command C-54 plane. They had planned to stop overnight in Honolulu on Friday, and to arrive in San Francisco next Saturday. The schedule called for arrival in Washington June 19.

The King died at a time which may be critical in his country's history. The country has applied for membership in the United Nations, and recently has charged French incursions from Indo-China into Laos and Cambodia in the areas ceded by the Vichy French government to Siam during the war. The Siamese hoped to present this case to the United Nations Security Council.

Young Hitch-Hiker Says He Was Robbed

A 17-year-old Mexico City high school student, hitch-hiking to his mother's home in Boston, was temporarily stranded here yesterday after being robbed by a motorist of $40, according to reports given police.

Charles Tomacelli, who said his father was the South American representative of a large soft drink company, told police he had caught a ride out of New Orleans when the driver threatened him and took $40 in currency from him.

Tomacelli said the motorist did not get some $8 in change he had in his pocket. With this, he told police, he bought a train ticket to Atlanta. From here he hopes to contact his mother.

He said school had let out recently in Mexico City and he had hoped to surprise his mother.

Meat Packing Plant Lay-Offs...

and the Reason why

Lately we have been compelled to lay off many men and women who have been with us for years and whose services we earnestly desire to retain. Because Armour and Company considers regular and continuous employment important along with earning returns on investments of owners and providing the best possible product and service to the consuming public we regret these lay-offs. We take this means of explaining to our laid-off employees and their families—and the public—the circumstances which have brought about this deplorable situation.

We cannot give the usual amount of employment and the usual opportunity to earn wages primarily because the U. S. Office of Price Administration has burdened us with regulations which make it impossible for us to buy livestock, particulary cattle, in the numbers required to utilize our plant facilities and maintain normal employment.

We say it is impossible and we have challenged OPA officials, Union leaders or any who think otherwise, to buy cattle for us in any number they are able and at any price they have to pay provided only that the price be "in compliance" with OPA regulations. Thus far our challenge has not brought any result.

It is important to note that profit or lack of profit is not the issue involved and is not the reason for our inability to buy cattle.

The OPA has set maximum permissible prices which we may pay for the various grades of cattle and we are required under threat of severe penalties which include the possibility of imprisonment, to buy within the price ranges prescribed.

When we obtain cattle within the prescribed price ranges we are said to be "in compliance" with OPA pricing regulations.

If we cannot buy the cattle we need within the OPA prescribed price ranges we have to choose between

(a) Buying at prices "out of compliance" and risking the severe penalties provided by OPA or

(b) Reducing our cattle and beef operations to fit the numbers we are able to obtain "in compliance."

Being law-abiding and legitimate operators we simply are, in these circumstances, forced to reduce operations to fit the numbers we are able to obtain "in compliance."

Black market operators who do not seem to fear violating OPA price regulations are able to obtain cattle that we need and which we try to buy. Frequently the black market operator's bids for the cattle are as little as 10¢ per cwt. over the top price we are able to bid "in compliance." Under existing regulations when the black market bids even 10 cents per hundred weight above our compliance level, the black market gets the cattle and we cannot get them.

Until we can bid in competition with the black market we cannot restore normal operations and provide the normal number of jobs in our cattle and beef and allied departments. And we cannot bid in competition with the black market while OPA holds us to its pricing regulations and until the law of supply and demand is permitted to operate in the nation's meat markets.

The black market will collapse when Armour and Company and other law-abiding packers are free to buy and sell on a truly competitive basis. Our ability to utilize by-products will permit us to pay more for cattle and sell beef for less than the black marketeers once competition is restored.

The public will benefit through restoration of competition in these several ways:

(1) Increased supply of meat in retail markets where consumers can obtain it at prices which they themselves determine to be fair

(2) Removal of dangers growing out of insanitary conditions which frequently accompany black market operations

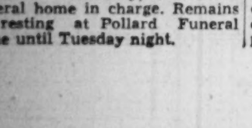

(3) Recovery of by-products lost in black market operations but of great importance to users of pharmaceuticals and many other beneficial products

(4) Resumption of regular work schedules in departments which cannot now be operated because of OPA regulations.

We greatly regret our inability to offer regular employment to the many valued and skilled men and women who desire to work for us and who have worked for us but whom we are not now able to provide with work because of conditions beyond our control.

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

Boy You Grew Up With Can Be Disappointment

That's gratitude for you! When you were ten years old, you were the one who tended Michael and his bloody nose. When he fell off his bike and twisted his knee, you practically carried him to the doctor's yourself. When it was your turn to pick a partner, it was always Michael. And he always picked you.

The other girls you know grew up with Michael and his gang too. You've all been playing together since grade school days. You went to high school in a gang. And those boys clung to your familiar faces as so many ports in the storm. You helped them with their home work. You helped them patch up their bruised and battered feelings. And they did the same for you.

BUT NOW

When they started to date . . . and you were ready for that long before they were . . . they tried out on you. They could count on your helping them over the date hurdles. They practically didn't think of you as girls anyhow. The only difference now was that you went out together at night . . . instead of planning all your excitements in the daytime. And you went out alone with Michael sometimes . . . instead of in a pack.

You girls thought you had those boys in your pockets. You thought it would go on forever . . . or at least through high school.

But you're bristling now. You're all muttering "What did we do to deserve this? What's the matter with us? Why didn't they invite us to the Junior-Senior Prom?"

There they went inviting that dizzy blond freshman, and that tall, dark-haired girl who goes to a school three miles away . . . and that red-haired girl who left school last year. They invited everybody but the old guard. And you girls were left out in the cold. Some of you didn't even get to go to your own Prom!

IT'S THEIR BID

Just because you've known Michael and his pals since they were born, it doesn't give you the leap on their invitations. They want to invite the most glamorous, exciting girls they know to their big do. If you and your girl friends don't quite fill the bill . . . they're going to invite somebody who does. Even if she goes to another school.

If they're going to wander far afield for their dance partners, do the same yourself. Invite the lad who looks the most exciting to you, be he a senior, a lad from out of town or your own favorite cousin. But invite somebody to go with you. If the lads who've played with you all your life don't consider you glamorous Prom fare . . . there's some boy somewhere who would!

The WORRY CLINIC

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Don't use the threat that the police will get your child if he doesn't behave. Teach your youngster to admire instead of dread the brave officers who stand between them and the criminal or the reckless motorist.

CASE K-216: Mike J., 35, was in one of the psychology classes which I taught in our Traffic Institute at Northwestern.

"We policemen don't always get the co-operation which we deserve from the good people of the community," he protested. "If we catch a man speeding and order him to halt, do you know what he usually does?

"After protesting that he wasn't exceeding the speed limit, he may next peel off a five-spot and hand it to us in the hope that we will forget the incident.

"Or he will try to bluff us by telling that Judge So-and-So is a friend of his, or that he knows the Mayor or some other influential politician.

"Dr. Crane, why don't the good citizens try to see our viewpoint and help instead of hinder our work?"

Mike's position is well taken in this matter. The general public too often fails to accept its proper responsibility for law enforcement. Instead, we delegate the task to policemen and then ignore our duty to the city or nation.

"Let the 'cops' be responsible for the law enforcement," is too often our attitude.

If we can get away with our own violations, we seem to feel that we have been clever. Even so-called respectable people get a thrill out of being a little bit lawless at times. Why?

Because it inflates our ego to feel that we are powerful. And if we are beyond the law or can break minor rules, we erroneously think we are important, powerful, "big shots."

People will kick over the traces not because lawlessness is so desirable in its own right as because they are low in spirit, deflated in ego, and hence wish to regain a feeling of importance and power.

Women, when angry or depressed, may recklessly buy a new hat which they can ill afford. But the sheer act of doing what they know they shouldn't gives them a sense of satisfaction. Why? Because they feel superior to rules, and hence get a renewed sense of power.

Policemen are the guardians of our lives, our children and our property. Most of them are honest, hard-working citizens with children of their own.

They have a dangerous and a thankless job. Thankless, in part, because people tend to sympathize with the underdog and hence they subconsciously side with the culprit.

Nowadays, school children usually hail the kindly traffic policeman with joy and appreciation. Let us adults do the same and help him in his courageous work.

And never scare your child with threats that a policeman will get him if he doesn't do what you wish. Instead, always try to build up your child's friendship for police officers, as well as for physicians and dentists, since all three are primary protectors of youngsters and can work more efficiently with children who co-operate.

Write to Dr. Crane in care of The Constitution, inclosing a 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs, when you send for one of his psychological charts.

TO EXPLORE N. Y. MARTS

College Girls To Assist In Campus Wear Buying

A quartet of Atlanta college girls become fashion moulders today when they arrive in New York as the first college consultants from the South to visit the New York market.

The group, which left Atlanta yesterday on the Crescent Limited, includes Louise Sharpe, of Stephens College; Carol Thomas, of the University of Georgia; Virginia Dickson, of Agnes Scott College; and Allison Waggoner, of Duke University.

They will not be shopping the fashionable Fifth Avenue stores, nor are they in search of vacation clothes. The foursome will go instead to the show rooms of apparel manufacturers, along with junior buyers from Rich's, Inc., to help select clothes for campus wear next Fall.

Mrs. Asa Patterson, of Rich's fashion department, is chaperoning the girls and they will join Mrs. Herman Berg, the store's fashion co-ordinator at The Delmonico Hotel on Park Avenue for their stay in Manhattan.

In exploring "the market," the girls will have an actual part in choosing items which will go into the College Shop when it opens later in the season.

Each of the four was a member of the 1945 College Fashion Board and each has gained recognition as an unusual student from the faculty and student body of her particular college.

So the Atlanta store feels the advice of the college quartet will be important to its buyers now in New York: Miss Kay Young, of the junior dress shop; Miss Zola Duhs, sport shop; Miss Lillian Cates, junior suits and coats; and Mrs. Mabel Wilkie, junior sport shop.

Rich's College Fashion Board, consisting of six college girls and six girls from current high school graduating classes, was established 12 years ago, but this is the first time college girls have helped select clothes at the source.

Besides exploring "the market," the girls will visit the Metropolitan Museum of Art, particularly to see exhibits in the Museum of Costume Art, and they will cover the Fashion Institute and the Central Needle Trades High School.

Miss Frances Carter Bush Weds Alexander Mavro

Miss Frances Carter Bush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bush, became the bride of Alexander Mavro at a ceremony which took place recently at the Glenn Memorial Chapel with Rev. Sam Laird officiating. A program of music was presented by Mrs. Carolyn Dowman, organist, and Miss Minna Hecker, soloist.

Leon Sims, of Brunswick was best man, and the ushers-groomsmen included John Hargrove of Jacksonville, Fla., and William Dobson.

Miss Claire Hahn, of Chicago, Ill., was the maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of blue tulle and carried a nosegay of Spring flowers.

The lovely bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown which featured a satin bodice and tulle skirt. She carried a white prayer book topped with orchids. Her veil was finger-tip length.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home on Clifton Rd. Assisting the hostess in entertaining were Mrs. W. A. Bobson, Mrs. Herbert Stuckey, Mrs. Lena Shreve and Mrs. John Hargrove, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. Lena Bird, of Greenville, Fla., and Mrs. Burch Blackburn, of St. Petersburg, Fla.

In 15 minutes rid rooms safely of flies or mosquitoes

By Dr. Amos E. Badertscher, Nationally Known Entomologist

To rid your home quickly of flies and mosquitoes, buy a pint or quart of Bee Brand Insect Spray (same famous proved formula, now made better by adding 1% DDT). Close the doors and windows. Then, with a good hand spray gun, fill the room with a fog of Bee Brand Insect Spray. Leave the room closed for 15 minutes. As the insects fly through the fog, they will be affected immediately. Those that are only paralyzed, will die later because of the DDT.

Bee Brand Insect Powder, spread in cracks, crevices and corners will kill ants, roaches, bedbugs and silverfish. Not harmful to pets or children. Directions for safe use on every container.

INTO THE LIGHT

After 8 Years of Dark Days, A Mother Is Home at Last

Martha Ehrlich hadn't seen her son for more than eight years when he hugged her yesterday in the Terminal Train Station and told her comfortingly that things were going to be better now.

There were going to be no more Japs and skimpy rations and internment camps and American bombers, for this was home. And Martha Ehrlich was happy as she held her son Kurt to her, finding strength in his arms and new hope in the warm Spring morning.

It was in 1941 she left Stuttgart, Germany, to escape the Nazis, fleeing through Russia, Siberia and China. She was delayed at Shanghai while attempting to get an American visa to come to the United States.

She was in Shanghai when the Pacific War broke and the awful reality of being a prisoner of the Japanese crashed around her. Those were dark days in 1942 when the Japanese armies thrust relentlessly over the South Pacific, and her son Kurt, was fighting with the Americans in Europe.

There were Jap guards and skimpy rations of rice and no word from the outside except a short message every six months through the Red Cross.

And then the Jap strength ebbed and the American bombers began to pulverize the Shanghai area and finally the long awaited word of peace came.

But Martha Ehrlich was trying to forget all that yesterday. The rolling thunder of war echoed yet out of the past, but she found comfort in her family

She is living with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Wortsman, of 676 Darlington Rd., and the only problem now is finding an apartment.

The Ehrlichs are thankful that's the most pressing problem for them to solve now.

TOGETHER AFTER EIGHT YEARS—Kurt Ehrlich is overjoyed at seeing his mother, Martha Ehrlich, for the first time since he left Stuttgart, Germany, in 1938, to come to the United States. His mother left Germany after the war began and was interned in a Japanese camp for more than five years. They are living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Wortsman, at 676 Darlington Rd., until they can find an apartment.

Miss Mary Hardin Weds George Issac S. Elliott

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hendrix Hardin announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Eloise Hardin, to George Isaac Smith Elliott, USNR, of Swainsboro, which took place recently in Watkinsville.

Mrs. Elliott's mother is the former Miss Mary Lee Freeman, daughter of Mrs. Mary Fulcher Freeman, of Augusta and Atlanta. The bride's paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward John Hardin, Sr., of Gainesville, and Atlanta. She is a graduate of North Fulton High School, where she was a member of Sigma Delta Sorority and the Tallulah Falls Circle. She attended Sullins College, belonging to Hoofprints Club, Sullins Players, Episcopal Club, the Georgia Club and the Athletic Association. She also was a member of the Sullins May Court. During the past year she has been a student at the University of Georgia, where she is a Chi Omega pledge. Paul Hardin, Jr., and Miss Patricia Hardin are the bride's brother and sister.

Mr. Elliott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Elliott, of Swainsboro, his mother being the former Miss Georgia Smith, of Tennille, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Smith. His paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Elliott, of Conyers. Mr. Elliott graduated from Swainsboro High, attended Emory, at Oxford, and the University of Georgia. Miss Sara Elliott and Charles Elliott, of Swainsboro, are the groom's sister and brother. He is a member of the K. A. fraternity. He entered the service in 1943 and has been stationed at the Naval Air Base, in Jacksonville, Fla. The couple will reside in Swainsboro, where the groom will be associated in business with his father.

Biddy-Murdoch Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. John Kirby Biddy announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Kathryn Jane Biddy, of Madison and Atlanta, to Sgt. Jack R. Murdoch, United States Army, the marriage to take place this month.

Miss Biddy is the only daughter of Omega Nelson Biddy and John Kirby Biddy, of Madison. She attended Martha Berry School, at Rome, where she was a member of the Georgian Society. She is, at present, employed at Georgia Power Company.

Sgt. Murdoch is the son of Mrs. G. C. Goodman, of Atlanta, and the late J. A. Murdoch. The groom-elect entered the Army in 1942, spending thirty-four months overseas as an agent in the Criminal Investigation Division. He was released in October 1945 and immediately re-enlisted. He is currently stationed in Atlanta with the U. S. Army Recruiting Service. He is also attending the Woodrow Wilson College of Law.

Losing A Chance to Get More Soap?

Steady there, Mrs. America. We're not kidding. Last month, women all over the country threw away enough used fats to make over twenty million big boxes of soap powder.

Maybe some women think they don't need to save used fats any longer. Perhaps others are doing half a job...or saving only now and then.

THE TRUTH IS: there won't be more soap until your country's industrial fat supply is much increased.

By turning in every drop of used fats, you'll help bring back more soaps sooner. You use soap every day, so save used fats every day. One pound helps make about two pounds of needed soaps...gets you 4¢ a pound from your butcher.

Where there's fat—there's soap

Grant Park Aces Take 8th in Row

Grant Park Aces, the only undefeated team in the Sunday Amateur Baseball Federation, ran their string of successes to eight yesterday afternoon when they pounded out an 18-to-7 win over Lithonia on the Lithonia diamond.

Bitsy Thompson did the hurling for the Aces and also stood out on the offense with a home run. East Atlanta downed Forest Park, 12 to 2, and Casa Rio plastered Southside Motors by a 10-to-1 count in the other games played in this league.

In the Georgia League, Kirkwood handed the league-leading Georgia Milk nine its second defeat of the season by a 6-to-5 score. Dortch Bakery, the second-place club, dropped its engagement down at Panthersville, 3-2, in another form reversal. Marvin Gaines' Local 199 prevailed over Fairburn, 9 to 5, in the remaining Georgia loop tussle.

Mayson, the Chattahoochee League leader, whipped Egan Park, 15 to 6, to bring its season's record to eight and one. Other Chattahoochee games found Calvert nipping Roswell, 7 to 6, in 10 innings; Brookhaven squeezing out a 7-6 win over Bolton in 10 frames, and Techwood downing Delta Air Lines, 5 to 4.

A meeting of Peach League managers is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. tonight at Reeder & McGaughey Sporting Goods Store.

Atlantans Trail In Stock Races

GREENSBORO, N. C., June 9.—(AP)—Marshall Teague, of Daytona Beach, Fla., captured the 1946 North Carolina stock car championship Sunday before 6,000 fans.

Teague, who trailed the favored Roy Hall, of Atlanta, in both the first race eliminations and in the first part of the feature drive, lapped the field in his triumph on the AAA circuit.

Hall, low qualifier in the time trials, with a timing of 34.4 seconds, had the race well in hand as most of the spectators expected as the halfway mark passed in the 30-lap championship. But he blew a tire and was out of the race.

Glenn Dunnaway, of Charlotte, was second, and Buddy Shuman, Charlotte, third; Norman Wrigley, Atlanta, fourth; Jack Ethridge, Atlanta, fifth.

Luck, or Not?— Bill Ayers, who is almost as good a comic as he is a pitcher, stopped Manager Ki Ki Cuyler the other day with this one:

"When do I pitch again, Mr. Ki Ki, the folks down at Newnan will be wanting to know when I get home." Ayers is a great favorite with his home folks and when he's out there on the mound he has a bunch of fans in the stands rooting for him.

One of the reasons the Crackers are resting so comfortably in first place is their ability to win the close ones.

The Cuylermen have lost very few one-run decisions this year, but they've come off with about a half dozen in their favor.

Luck? Maybe, but when you see a team on top of any league, you'll see one that has the ability to win when the going is tough.

Another thing about this Cracker team is the spirit Cuyler has instilled in every member of the squad.

On the last road trip they won four ball games in the last inning, coming from as far behind as five runs in one of them.

There was a lot of talk after Bill Ayers beat Herman Drefs, 2 to 1, last Friday night about how lucky the Crackers have been. Nobody can deny that they have been fortunate, but the fact they have been good enough to take advantage of the breaks that came their way is the important thing.

Plenty of other teams have had chances to do the same thing, and they've failed.

Has Winning Formula LeGrant Scott, the former Cracker now managing Waycross in the Georgia-Florida League, has the right formula for being a successful manager.

"Scotty" pulled a rare one the other day to win a tight game for his Bears.

The score was tied, so the story goes, about the sixth inning when Waycross got a man in scoring position. Scotty put himself in to pinch hit and he knocked the runner home. Then without warming up, he went out on the mound and proceeded to hurl scoreless ball for the rest of the day.

One of the most popular Crackers of recent years, Scott is turning in a great job in his first year as a manager. His is the only one of the three Cracker farm clubs well up in the race. The Bears are in second place behind the Americus Phillies.

Chick Autry, at Charleston, and Steve Bysco, at Burlington, are both buried in the second division, but they probably will improve as the season goes along.

Maybe it's significant that Scott is the only one of the farm club managers playing regularly. Autry doesn't ever get in a game and Bysco uses himself only occasionally as a relief pitcher.

Sports Briefs DIXIE PARSONS, whose playing career was cut short by injuries suffered in a collision with SNUFFY STERNWEISS, was a visitor to Sunday's doubleheader. Parsons was released at Waycross after his arm failed to respond to treatment. He may latch on to a manager's job before long.

CHARLEY (GREEK) GEORGE, the fiery former Oglethorpe athlete, also was in the stands. George's suspension of one year following a fight with an American League umpire is up on June 18. He is the property of the Philadelphia Athletics.

It was inevitable that UMPIRE DOWDY would be nicknamed "Apple Pan" so it might as well be recorded that he got the moniker in Atlanta during the Memphis series.

Although MORRIS ADERHOLT hasn't been hitting since he joined the Crackers, he's still one of the most feared men in the lineup. Lately the big fellow has been getting hold of the ball well and he may live up to his reputation from here out.

There's been lots of telephone calls and several letters asking if it wasn't HANK GREENBERG instead of JIMMY FOXX who hit 58 homers in one year. Actually, both of them did it.

Barron and Worsham Tie For Lead in Philly Event

By BOB CAVAGNARO

PHILADELPHIA, June 9—(AP)—Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y., veteran, and Lew Worsham, Bethesda, Md., dark horse, tied for first prize of $2,500 in the 72-hole Philadelphia Inquirer $15,000 Invitation Golf Tournament today. They had four-round totals of 277—three under par.

There will be an 18-hole playoff tomorrow. Barron shot the final round in 69, one under par, and was the only finalist to better the 6,405-yard Llanerch Country Club Course's par of 70 today. The 28-year-old Worsham carded a 71.

Playing in the last threesome of the final round, Barron and Worsham put on a thrilling finish on the final hole. Both split the fairway with their drives. Barron approached eight feet past the cup, Worsham's approach rolled a foot off the green, approximately 18 feet from the hole.

Using a putter, Worsham stroked the ball calmly. It rolled straight for the cup, but caught a break in the green and rolled to the right, stopping a few inches away. Barron's putt caught the same break and it stopped a foot past the cup. They bunted in their putts for par 4s and the deadlock.

Vic Ghezzi, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Jimmy Demaret, of Houston, with totals of 279, finished in a tie for third place.

Greenberg and Trout Fight

BOSTON, June 9—(AP)—Dizzy Trout, Detroit pitcher, and Hank Greenberg, first baseman of the same club, threw several punches at each other today in the dugout during the first game of today's double-header, which the Tigers lost to the Red Sox.

No details could be learned but the incident, in which neither player landed a punch, occurred after Hal Wagner shot a single by Greenberg.

Both Steve O'Neil and Umpire Cal Hubbard dashed into the dugout to help other Tiger players in separating the pair.

It was noticeable that after Wagner's hit, Trout seemed peeved and throwing harder than ever.

One report had it that Trout made a disparaging remark about Greenberg's high salary, reported as $65,000 annually

Before the game Trout was rather cocky and was "out to stop the Red Sox" who belted him off the mound as they won the opener from him.

The Tigers left for New York tonight.

Crackers Take First, 7-5; Pebbles Win Second, 8-4

Bill Ayers Is Fireman For Cuyler

By F. M. WILLIAMS

The Crackers divided a pair of games with the Little Rock Travelers before 10,252 fans Sunday afternoon, staggering to a 7-to-5 decision in the nine-inning first game and kicking away the second in an extra inning, 8 to 4.

The league leaders piled up a 7-to-1 lead in the first game and barely managed to save the decision as the Pebs counted four times in the seventh and one in the eighth, finally having to call on Big Bill Ayers to shut off the power.

Dewey Adkins, who hurled three-hit, shut-out ball for six innings, weakened in the seventh and had to be yanked, but he still got credit for the triumph.

The nightcap started out as a beautiful duel and wound up in a riot of errors, the Crackers kicking three balls in the eighth to give the visitors their victory.

GLOCK HOMERS

Feature of the tilt was Charley Glock's second home run of the year. It came in the fifth inning with Lloyd Gearhart on base and cleared the third row of signs in right field.

Emil Lochbaum, trying for his third victory, couldn't hold either of the three leads his mates gave him. He was pulled in the seventh and Paul Crain, recently added to the Cracker staff, finished, getting credit for the defeat.

Hudlin also had to have help and he got it from Big Bill Peterson, who hurled himself out of a very tough spot in the seventh to gain the verdict.

In what was scheduled to be the last inning, the Crackers got men on first and third with no one out and two of the best hitters coming up.

Peterson, a cold cucumber, proceeded to strike out Babe Ellis and forced Ted Cieslak to ground to the box to end the threat.

ERRORS HURT

Errors by Glock, Hamner and Pitcher Paul Crain, plus singles by Flick, Burgo and Nieman, got the Pebs their winning margin in the eighth.

The Crackers pounded Bill Trotter out of the box in five innings and apparently had the first game wrapped up.

Then in the seventh Adkins walked Herb Bremer and Metzig, and had three balls on Hancock, so Manager Cuyler waved him out of the box and called Wilbur Reeser in. Before Reeser could get the visitors out they had four runs and were on their way to more in the eighth before Ayers came out of the bullpen to stop it.

Cieslak, the league's leading hitter, had four for eight in the two games and batted home four runs for the day to lead the Crackers offensively.

Earl McGowan is scheduled to hurl the third game of the Little Rock series Monday night at 8:15 o'clock, going after his eleventh victory of the year and the ninth in a row.

Lorelei Ladies Beat Peerless Woolenettes

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 9 Atlanta's Lorelei Ladies made it two wins in a row over the Peerless Woolenettes by taking a thrilling 3-2 decision here last night behind the expert hurling of Sara Lewis. The Loreleis blanked the Chattanoogans in Atlanta earlier in the season 3-0.

Jean Parker was the leading hitter for the winners, collecting four safe blows.

Don Floyd Trips Teagle To Win City Net Crown

By TOM MILLER.

Unspectacular Don Floyd, the 31-year-old back-court specialist who never had a tennis racquet in his hand until he was 21, uncorked the best tennis of his 10-year career yesterday afternoon at Northside Tennis Club to capture the city championship from lanky Jack Teagle in straight sets, 7-5, 6-3, 11-9.

Floyd, a former State champion who was seeded second, won his first city title over top-seeded Teagle, city champion in 1944, on a steady deep court game and beautiful passing shots that nullified Teagle's usually brilliant net play.

In today's matches the doubles final between Teagle and Don Buffington and the team of Bitsey Grant and Harry Gault will share the spotlight with finals in Junior and Women's divisions. Mrs. Etta Coyne, who downed Rose Jones, Chattanooga city champion, will meet Louise Fowler, of Covington, for the title. Charles Fowler, who upset No. 1 seeded Bert Warshaw, of Tech, will meet Frank Owens, Junior.

Floyd started the championship match by deserting his backcourt tactics to go to the net, where the weakness of his net game gave Teagle an early four-game lead. Coming back from a 15-minute intermission forced by rain, he reverted to style and began his march on the title. He allowed Teagle but one game in overhauling him to take the set, 7-5.

Although hampered by his lack of a dangerous close-up game and a powerful serve, he had little trouble taking the second set, 6-3. His finely-drawn passing shots virtually stymied Teagle at the net and he hit the baselines and sidelines with almost montonous regularity.

He started to coast out the third set when Teagle jumped to a 4-1 lead. Teagle double-faulted to make it 3-4 and seeing a chance to wind it up in straight sets, Floyd set out after him. He knotted the game count at 5-all and from there on it was a see-saw battle up to 9-9, although Floyd at one time was within two points of match point. He took his own service to make it 10-9 and won the match when Teagle, whose service began to falter, double-faulted on match point.

SUNDAY'S RESULTS

Don Floyd defeated Jack Teagle, 7-5, 6-3, 11-9; Teagle and Don Buffington defeated Howard McCall and Zahner Reynolds, 6-8, 3-6, 6-3, 8-6, 6-4; Bitsey Grant and Harry Gault defeated Malcolm Manley and Fincher, 6-4, 6-3, 7-9, 6-4; Mrs. Etta Coyne defeated Rose Jones, 6-1, 6-2; Charles Fowler defeated Bert Warshaw, 6-4, 1-5, 6-3.

CONN STORY EXPLODED

Billy Can Run, Can't Hide, Says Joe Louis

By LEWIS BURTON

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 9—(INS)—Joe Louis terminated his one-man conspiracy of silence today.

After five years of permitting Billy Conn to build up the legend that he lost in 1941 because he chose to slug it out with Louis, the champion challenged the challenger with the flat statement that Conn "made no mistake" in the fatal thirteenth.

Louis was asked during the daily mass interview if Billy had made the mistake of trying to slug it out. Said Joe:

"The moving pictures don't show him sluggin'. He got caught in throwing a left. I crossed him with a right. There was no slugging by him in the thirteenth. The most sluggin' he did was in the twelfth."

That opened the whole book on their last meeting and, before the deluge of questions ceased, a number of pointed observations were drawn from the champion. Here's how they came:

Q. He had you hurt in the twelfth, didn't he?

Joe: "He didn't hurt much, but I knew I was hit. Maybe I didn't know what I was doin', but I knew what Conn was tryin' to do."

Q. If he runs, will you chase him.

Joe: "He can run but he can't hide."

Q. Didn't you say after the last fight that Jack Blackburn told you that you had to knock Conn out to win?

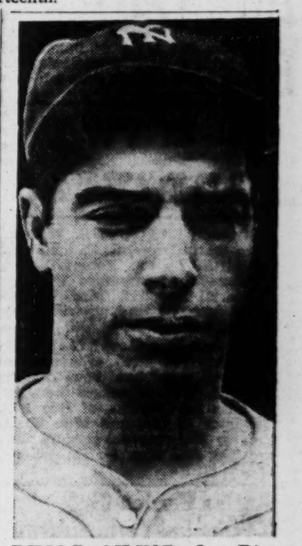

Joe: "No, Blackburn told me 'he's makin' you fight his type of fight.' So to make him feel good I said I'd knock him out in this round, and I was lucky to do it."

Q. You had Conn going in the second and fifth rounds, and you let him get away. How was that?

Joe: "He won't get away this time if I hit him."

Joe further remarked that he didn't see how Conn could have any new strategy nor did he expect to offer anything new himself.

He doesn't see how his wind could be any better than it is. All that adds up to: "I still think I can beat Billy on points."

DIMAG AILING—Joe DiMaggio, great New York Yankee center fielder, worried about his current hitting slump (he's under .270), has consulted several doctors in the past week or so, anxiously asking them the reason for his lack of pep and snap.

Pennant-Hungry Red Sox Beat Tigers Twice as Yankees Split

Senators And Chisox Divide Pair

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The rolling Red Sox swept a double-header from Detroit Sunday, taking the first game 7-1 for Mickey Harris' ninth victory against one defeat, and routing the Tigers 11-6 in the nightcap for Dave (Boo) Ferris' tenth success without a loss. The games were played in Boston.

Charlie Keller's home run with two on in the ninth inning of the nightcap gave the New York Yankees a 7-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians and an even break in their double-header before 66,545 paid admissions at Yankee Stadium. The Indians won the opener, 9-5.

The Philadelphia Athletics snapped back to win the second game of a double-header from the St. Louis Browns today, 8-4, after dropping the first, 6-2. An estimated crowd of 20,000 saw Vern Stephens hit a homer in the first game and Johnny Berardino in the second for the visitors.

Billy Hitchcock made four hits in five times at bat to pace a 16-hit Washington attack as the Senators battered the Chicago White Sox, 7-1, in the first game of a double-header at Washington, but Chicago won the second game, 8-1.

Dodgers Beaten Again As Cards Split Pair

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The St. Louis Cardinals loosed a batting attack that included home runs by Del Rice, Terry Moore and Stan Musial for a 9-to-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in the first game of a double-header Sunday in Philadelphia, but the Redbirds lost a fine chance to cut heavily into Brooklyn's lead by dropping the second, 3-1.

Pitcher Les Webber's wild pitch with the bases full and only one out in the tenth inning, enabled Charley Gilbert to score from third base with the winning run as the Chicago Cubs edged the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7-6, at Wrigley Field. It was the Cubs' seventh straight victory and third over Brooklyn before a crowd of 43,365 paid admissions.

Pittsburgh took the first game of a double-header from the New York Giants, 2 to 1, at Pittsburgh as Fred Ostermueller shaded Monte Kennedy in a tight hurling duel. The Pirates won the game in the seventh on a walk, Frankie Gustine's triple and a single by Burgess Whitehead.

The Pirates won the second game also, 5-1.

Ewell "The Whip" Blackwell won a mound duel from old Si Johnson as he pitched Cincinnati to a 1-0 victory over the Boston Braves in the second game of a double-header after the Reds lost the opener, 14-3, at Cincinnati Blackwell allowed four hits to Johnson's five.

Litwhiler Sold To Southworth

CINCINNATI, June 9—(UP)—Manager Billy Southworth brought another of his former St. Louis Cardinal stars to the Boston Braves today when Outfielder Danny Litwhiler was purchased from the Red Birds for an unannounced sum of cash.

Litwhiler, a hard-hitting 28-year-old right-hander, had been forced to ride the Cardinal bench this season because of the return of prewar stars Enos Slaughter, Terry Moore, and Stan Musial, who ousted him as a regular.

The former Philadelphia Phillies' star was one of the offensive spark plugs in the 1944 pennant-winning drive of the Cardinals. Although he hit only .264, his value was chiefly as a long ball hitter with men on bases and he drove in 82 runs.

Southworth announced that Litwhiler would join the Braves in Pittsburgh tomorrow and indicated that he would break into the line-up shortly "if he is in shape."

The Board of County Commissioners has set up a Health Unit at Blakely which will begin operations with one nurse and additional personnel to be added later. . . . Sammy Parker, 14-year-old star scout of Goodyear Troop 23, Rockmart, is the winner of the annual Litchfield award of a trip to Canada, Scout officials revealed. . . . A veteran of 48 years of railroad service, C. C. McDowell, Dublin, has retired. . . . The South Georgia belt will start shipping watermelons on a big scale this week, spokesmen at Moultrie announced.

Star Carrollton Baseball Pitcher William "Lefty" Seigler has "dood it" again, and still on the baseball diamond. However, it is not baseball records he set this time, but marital ones. He picked himself a pretty bride and they were married—and of all places—on the baseball diamond. This time there can be no "strikeouts," he said, as he smiled at his pretty bride, the former Miss Mildred Jennings Bradley.

To broaden the field of industry at Dublin, the Chamber of Commerce has sent a group to Cordele to investigate the development commission of that city. . . . More than 30 representatives of the Polk County rural schools and Home Demonstration Clubs participated in the Fashion Show held at Rockmart. Ruth Eldridge Voyles received first prize.

The life of a rat just isn't going to be what it used to be, at least in Valdosta, anyway. The city has received two ferrets, little animals which resemble the rat but are poison to him. Dr. E. D. King and Lonnie Beard are betting on the little fellows, for they are known as rat-killers. They say you "just can't bluff the little fellows."

Norman Junior College is represented at the Baptist Student Union Retreat at Ridgecrest, N. C., by 14 students, including the Norman quartette. . . . A bedspread factory is a new industry added to the growing list of enterprises at Louisville.

SMITTY

Tifton Recreation Application Denied

TIFTON, June 9—Judge R. Eve, President of the Tifton Playground and Recreation Board, has received a letter from James T. Martin, Director of the Project Processing Division, Bureau of Construction of the Civilian Production Administration, Washington, denying the Board's application for authority to construct a public playground and swimming pool at Tifton.

The letter stated the period of deferment would be as short as possible, consistent with the critical materials situation. Judge Eve stated the Board was disappointed, but not discouraged, and that the program would be carried out as rapidly as the Administration would permit.
